

The Fiftieth Volume of the LEGEND
1928-78

A black and white photograph of North Side High School. The building is a multi-story structure with a prominent portico supported by several columns. The name "NORTH SIDE HIGH SCHOOL" is inscribed on the frieze above the columns. The building has multiple windows, some of which are visible on the upper floors. The photograph is taken from a low angle, looking up at the building.

Celebrating North —50 years

"Happy birthday!" seemed to echo in the halls as North Side celebrated its fiftieth year.

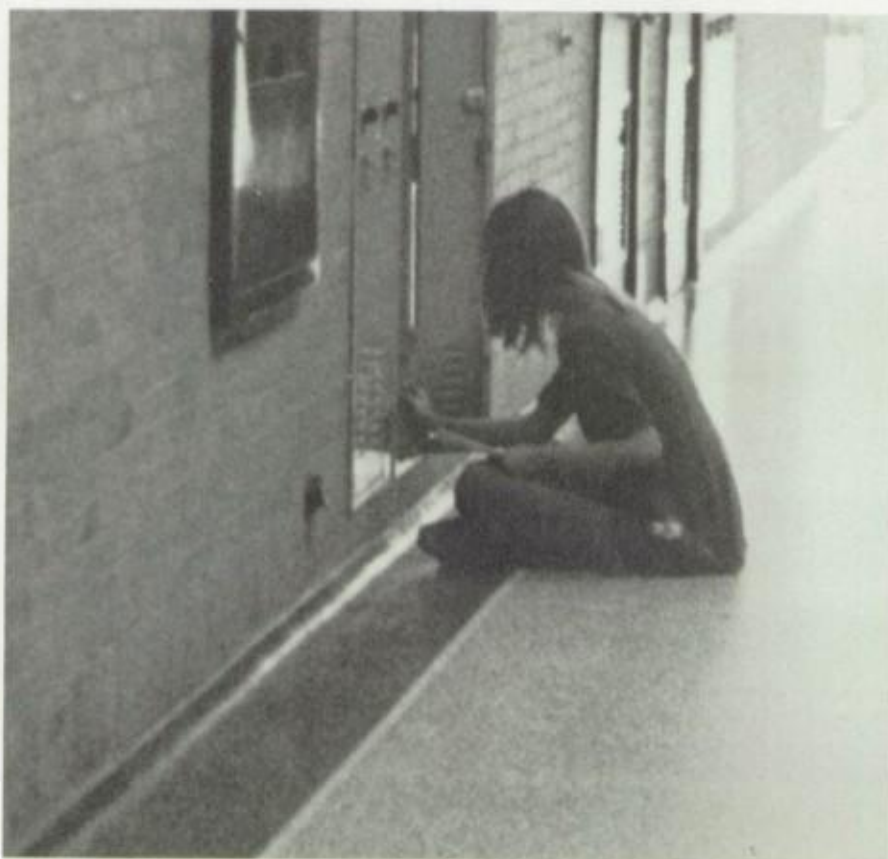

Special events which took place throughout the year: the float in the Three Rivers Festival, the special celebration at the Homecoming football game, the special visitation of some of the alumni at the graduation ceremonies, the open house May 7, and many other activities which helped remind us that this is the golden year.

Through the years North Side has produced many useful citizens, and as this year ends the celebration, we would hope that we might ourselves be of benefit to society, and would like to wish North Side fifty more fantastic years!

SADNESS

By the look on Lynne Meyer's face, band can be tiring.

A lonely Redskin searches for a book.

Sadness is graduating, although there are those who might argue with that.

Life is led in comic strips where Lucy hugs Snoopy sighing, "Happiness is a warm puppy."

But we have grown out of party dresses and all our pets have been tamed by their animal past.

Will we ever be too old for the cuteness we were born with—losing our round eyes to a long line of blindness

able to cry real tears and kiss a red cheek not printed by illusive dots?

No, here we live in a three-paneled world,
a three-colored world with the still lifes of our lives bleeding off each page.

We subscribe to this.
Yet, in its style, its type we read too much in our suffering.

It is there at our door everyday,
cartoons and castastrophe,
while the dog snaps after paper boy.

On Sunday the news comes wrapped in colors

This is the proper balance—the cold, healthy nose of Snoopy
the hand that feeds,
the hug that kills.

Senior Janet Naugle gives us a long face.

Although George seems to be enjoying it, Mr. Daniels isn't all too sure.

A dejected Stevie Nelson reports to the locker room after the Redskins

This special Fiftieth Anniversary Sign was a gift to North Side.

Homecoming Queen Tammy Wolf, accompanied by Joe Schomberg, goes out to be crowned.

After the junior and senior powder puff game, students went to the spirit rally where this bonfire was lit.

The seniors celebrated their first touchdown by Maryanne Conrad. Janet Putt also scored the two point play and an additional touchdown.

The football team goes into the locker room for half-time during the Homecoming game.

These cheerleaders show how well they look in short skirts as they cheer for the junior girls at the annual Powder Puff game between the junior and senior girls.

HAPPINESS

Some of the marching Redskins had a good time preparing Mr. King for a shave at band camp.

Senior Mike Borton and two junior girls show that there are no hard feelings about the powder puff game.

From the look of this smiling tuba player, happiness appears to be band.

A football player and North Side's own Leonard share a moment of triumph.

We'd like to think that the generations spread before us ate their lunch at a mock-up of Gardner's drive-in scripted with dishes on rollerskates and condiments of happy days.
Redskins at McDonald's, with no more problems
than a grill slip can handle.
Their clouds were never that low on the brown bag, cold cut horizon.
We lick our lips hunger after happiness and pack up all our cares and woe here I go,

bye, bye . . .

But we should hunger for a taste of everything
a smorgasbord while the tummy's young cider and donuts, bitter sweet chocolate sour apples and stale beer.
Things mother never used to make.
No rhyme or reason to jams and jellies menus and mildew.

Let the world starve on its memories
crash on its diets
we still have happy endings to go.

Leave penny tips under water glasses
Play with your food.
And only hunger, then,
after happiness
had had its fill.

Senior Maureen Roeger says "cheese."

Senior George Swiegert seems to say 'what did you expect from the seniors.'

Junior DeeDee Didier finds her Lifesaver lollipops fun to sell.

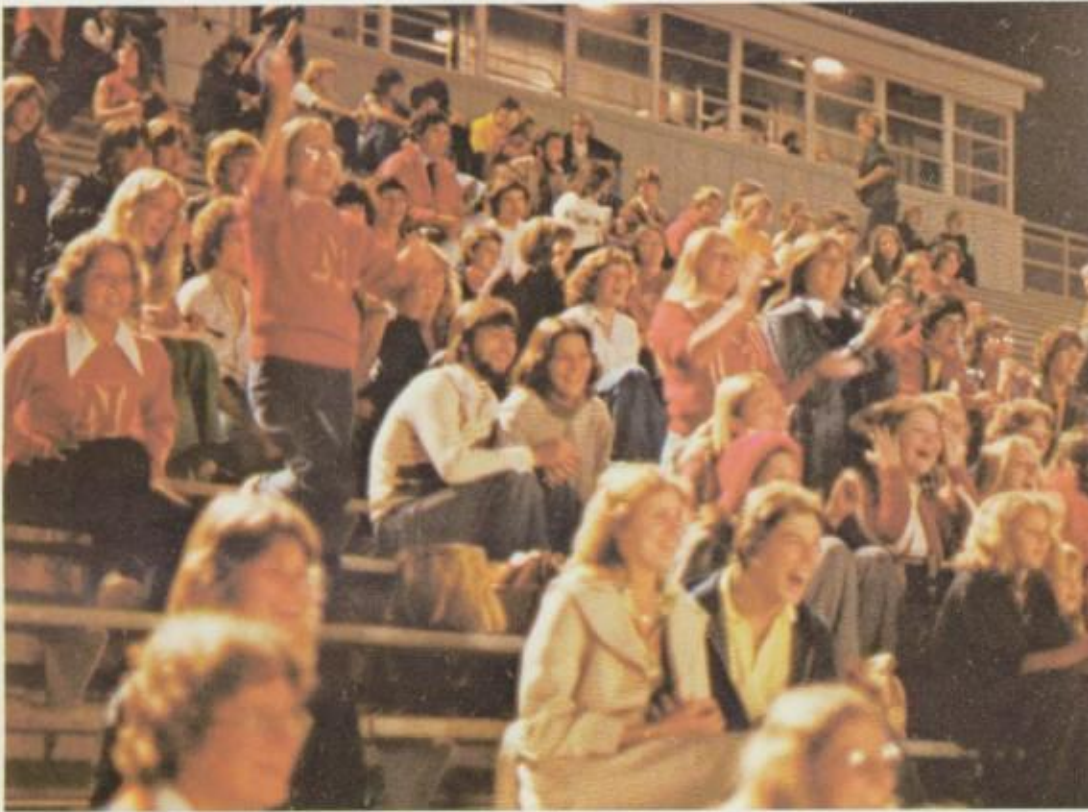

The tiger doesn't show any spirit at all but the band sure does, as they play at the powder puff football game.

Spirit came in all ways. A senior proudly displays her tee-shirt.

Seniors Lisa Bultimeyer, Joann Porter, and Martin Olry get together to help show that seniors have spirit.

Fans at a football game are always full of spirit.

The symbol of spirit at North Side, Chief Mac, alias Brian Boner, shows off his costume.

The Bruins showed spirit when they sent this giant birthday card.

STUDENT LIFE

Many people spent their time either watching or participating in the raft race.

Many students who don't have anything else to do just monkey around. Here Mary Anne Conrad is caught in the act.

Sports is a favorite pastime for students. Demonstrating some of her athletic ability is senior Janet Putt.

Student life,
another section of the fruit
on the tree of knowledge with academics nearer the pulp and portraits near the peel and athletics on the limb, staggers on through candid shots of staged proms in fall classes conducted beneath posing trees and random snapshots of random locker dramas
What is a yearbook?

One slice of life.
A leaf collection.

In spite of this,
life runs through these pages
through private jokes, scudding the leavings and the clutter of the river's cottonwood.

This is the original garden where we learned to sin.

Ignore the five continents
the two-faced world, the races and the species.

Try to tell the worm his world is not whole coiled around an indivisible core that distinguishes no stages of growth and stages no appraisals of vintage—pits no pith against seed.

Happy Birthday, North Side!

Gold by the River

It stands majestically, looking out over the silently-rippling St. Joe. North Side, like a pot of gold, full of golden memories for some, hopes for others.

Though thousands of students have loved, laughed and even cried in its familiar halls, even after fifty years of use, the gold has yet to tarnish.

This year the gold shone a little bit brighter because it was North Side's fiftieth anniversary, with special happenings taking place throughout the year. The anniversary may actually have meant little to us, but we are the ones who will benefit from its 50 years of experience, and we will never forget North Side High School.

ACADEMICS

Techniques vary in social studies

A variety of techniques, including class discussion, lectures, projects, audio visual material, and field trips, were used in teaching history. Mr. Ken Miller explained, "I try to teach so students can learn because of mutual motivated interest."

Forty students enrolled in the Learning Alternatives Room where students were taught on a much more individual basis, said department head Mr. Don Evans.

The class shows students "How the U.S. was developed from past to present, and stressed the different periods of history in relation to their problems and how they were solved and relate to our problems today," stated Mr. Miller. "The class shows how our world today is functioning and how our lives might be in the 21st century."

According to Mr. Eldridge, sociology classes studied different cultures in our society, the individual and how he's affected by society and other aspects of human behavior.

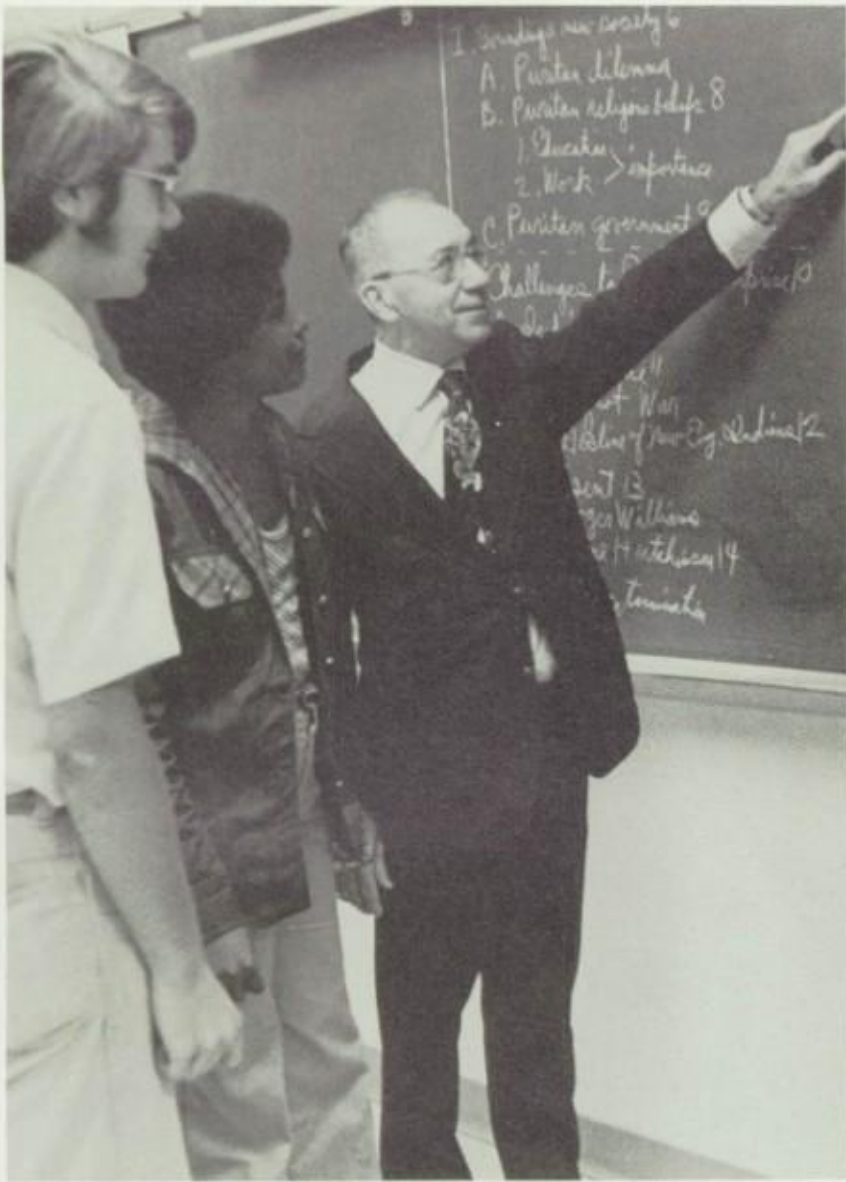

Criminology, taught by Mr. Heath, studied famous crimes and criminals.

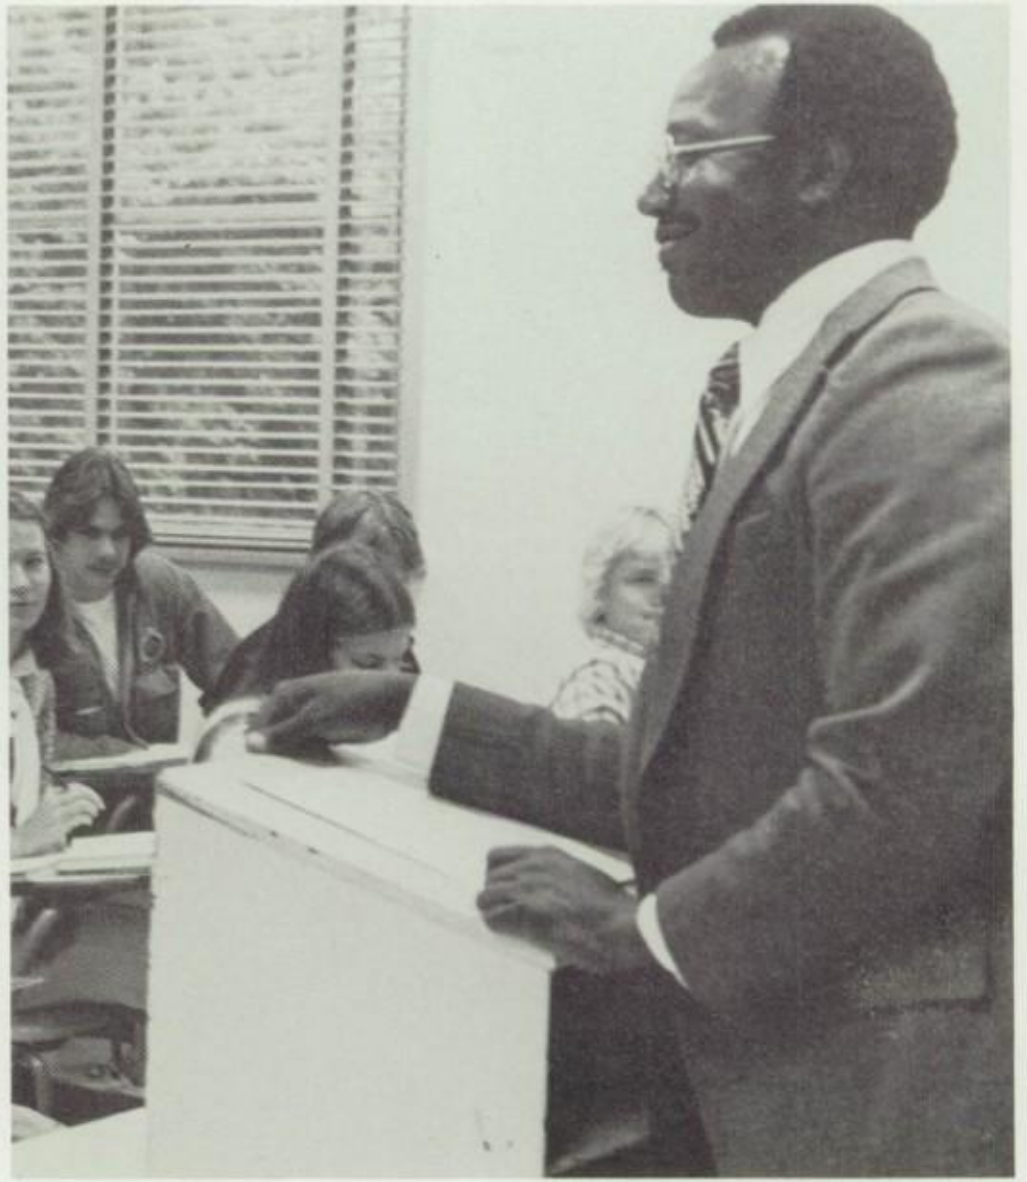

Mrs. Otte explains to her class just what the study of anthropology is all about.

Mr. Omerod explains what makes the individual in his psychology class.

These students listen intently as Mr. Feller tells the Salem witch trials.

Sociology can be very interesting as you can see by Mr. Eldridge and his class.

Mr. Henderson shows Ed Claymiller a geographic map in his government class.

New and harder materials for math

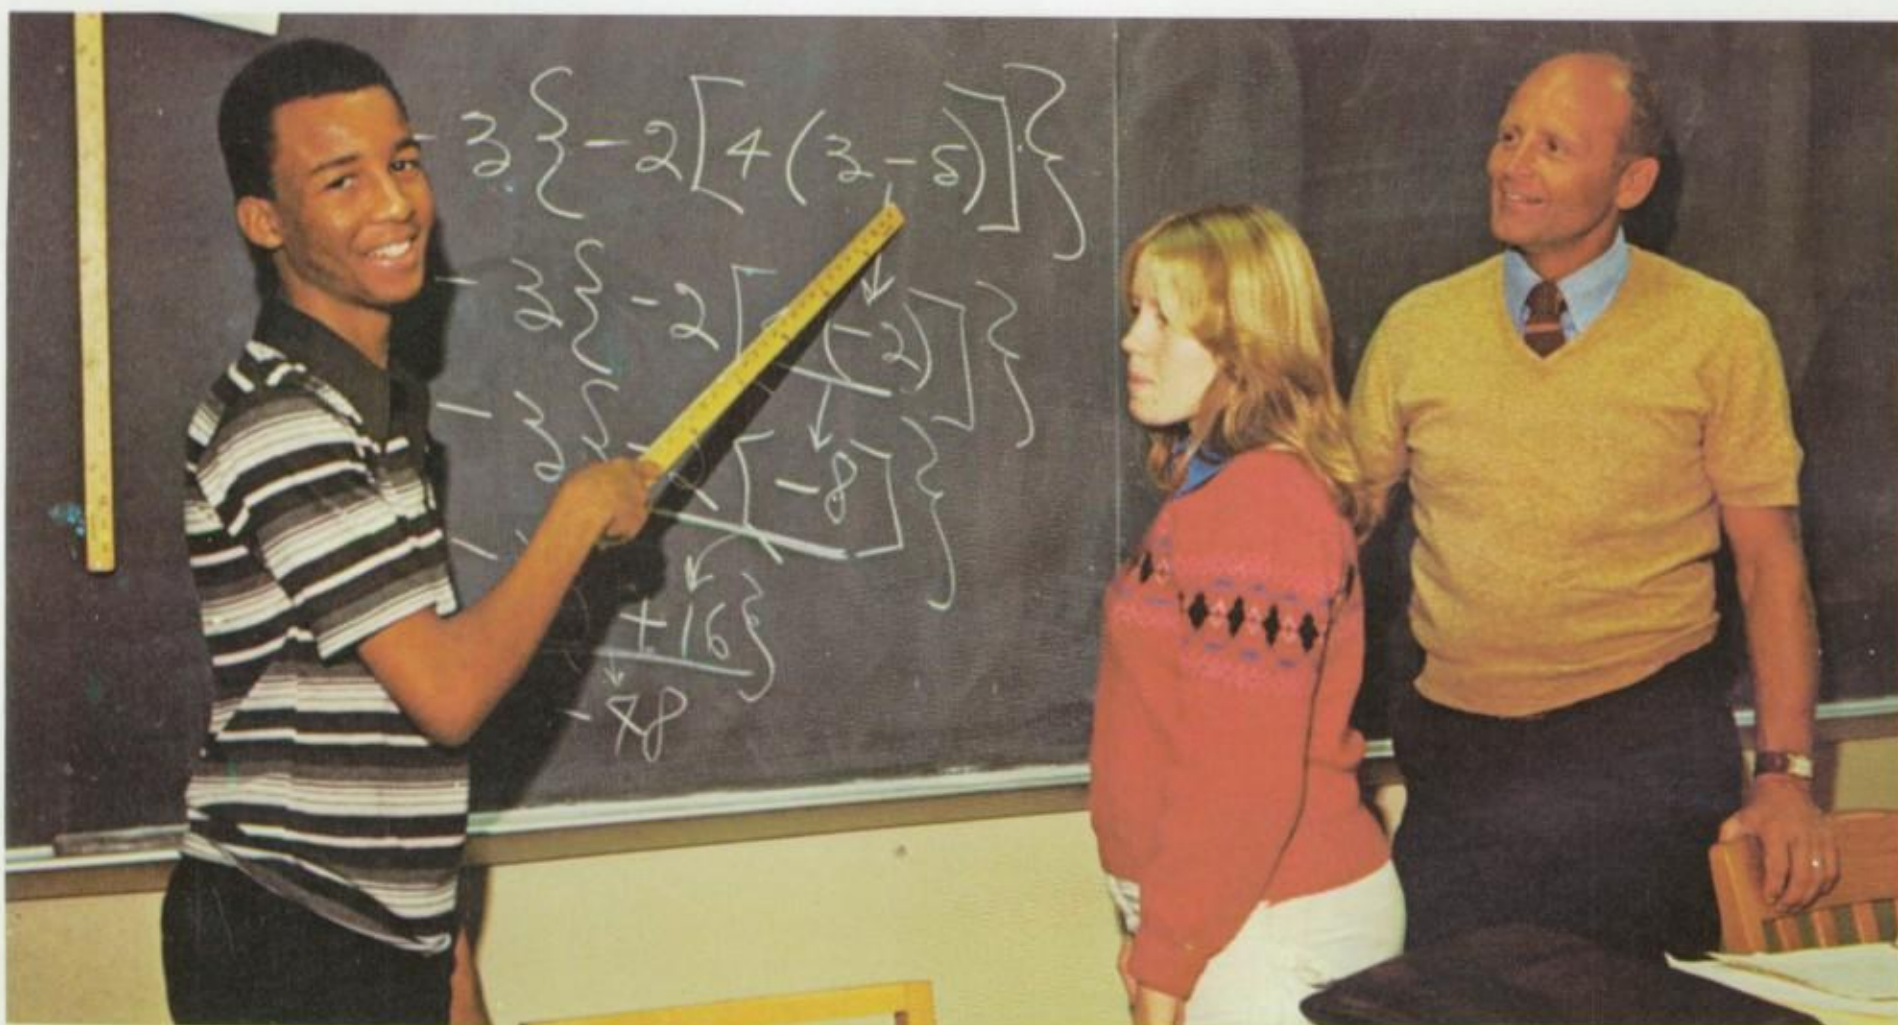

The Math Department, headed by Mr. Robert Lovell, was enlarged with the addition of Mr. David Bierbaum full time, since the number of math classes increased from 28 to 31.

Advanced algebra, trigonometry and geometry have been offered since North Side's first year. Through the years, six additional classes were added, ranging from basic math, for students with computational problems, to advanced math, which is an introduction to calculus. Analytic geometry was for college-bound students, while survey of math and fundamental courses in geometry and algebra were less rigorous.

Introduced this year was a computer math class. Four computer terminals were installed to help teach the programming language and how to write and run computer programs.

Mr. Bierbaum's geometry class discusses the number of sides there are to a geometric design.

Sophomores Bob Allison and Nancy Ashley do a little explaining on the board in Mr. Hey's math class.

Physics and Chemistry oldest subjects

The Science Department had a wide variety of courses. Physics and chemistry have been taught all of North's 50 years, but physical geography and botany, which were taught a half century ago, are no longer offered because the interest in them has declined. Biology was dropped since North no longer has freshmen as it did in 1927; but, since then, advanced biology has been added. Presently the curriculum includes physical science, environmental conservation, advanced science, ECCP block, and earth science.

The physics class sizes were smaller than last year. Earth science and physical science, a less pressing physics type class, increased in class size. Mr. Orvill Schlatter, who has been teaching only in the Social Studies department, taught physical science because of the increase of interest in these classes.

Mr. Lewis' chemistry class works on an experiment dealing with metals and nonmetals.

Juniors Cindy Huhn and Tiia Tomusk look for organisms through the microscope in Mr. Slavens' advanced biology class.

Mr. Rice's physics class discusses the layout of the school auditorium on the overhead projector.

Business gets students jobs

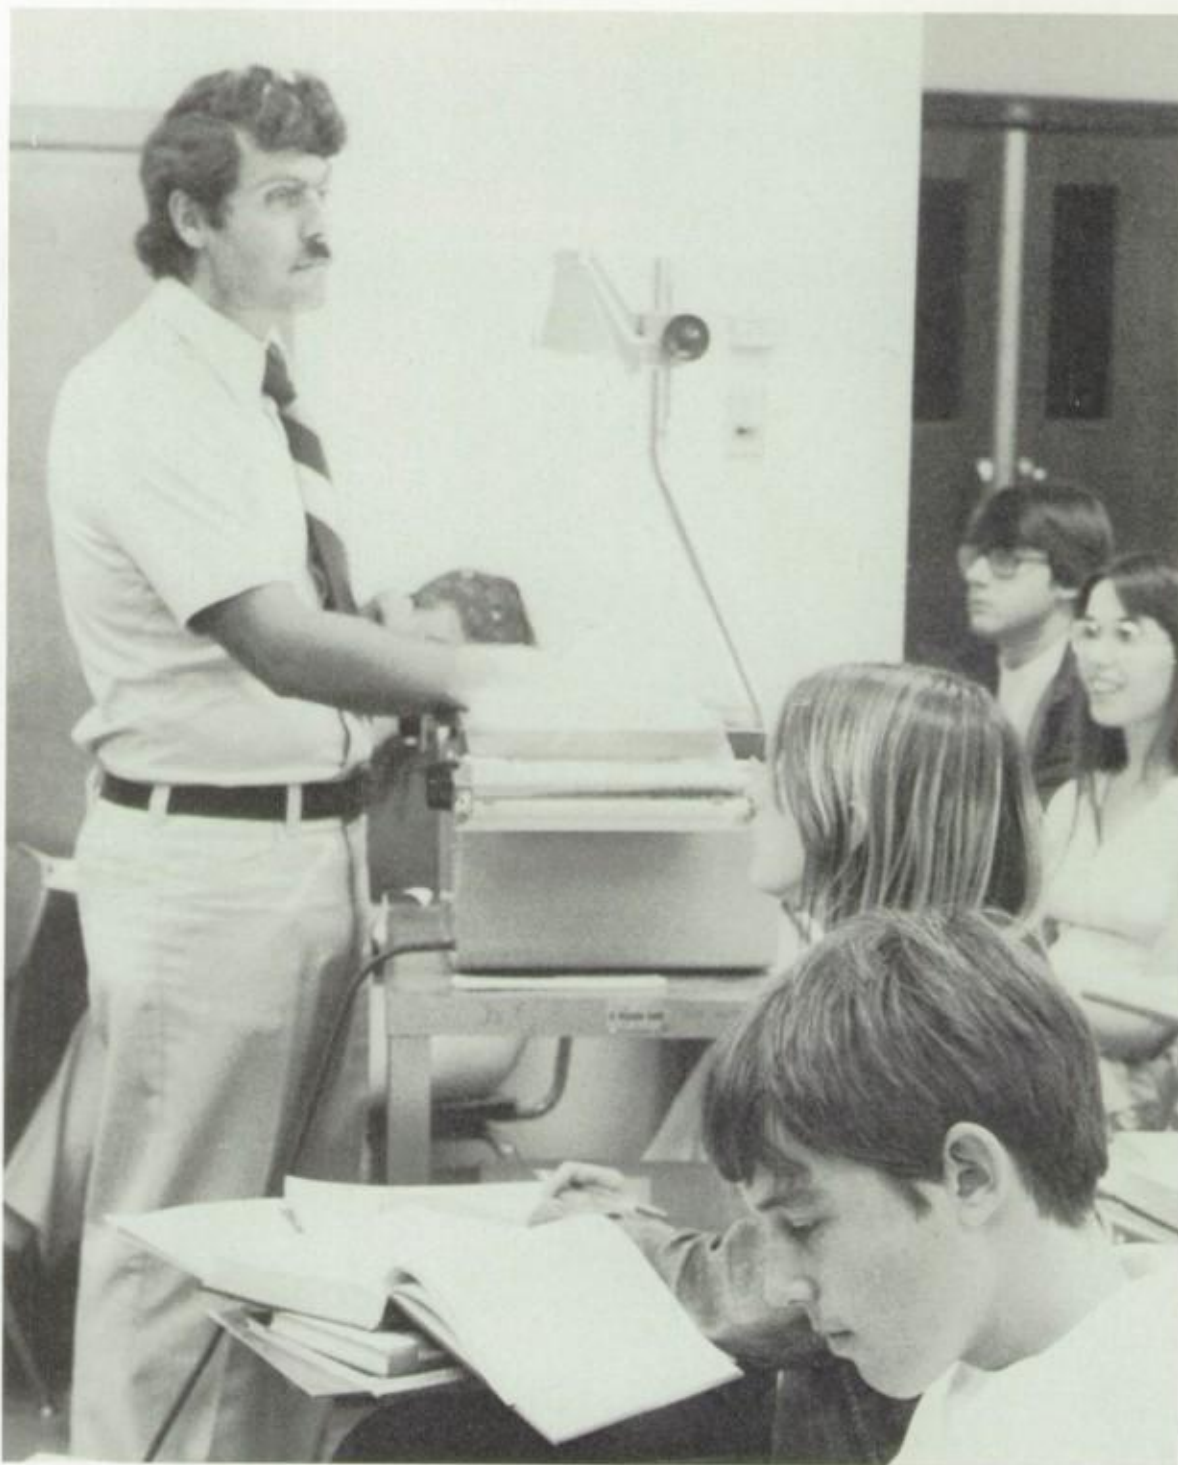

Besides the "basic" courses of typing, shorthand, recordkeeping, and accounting, the Business Department has nine other full and half year courses to aid students in achieving a well-rounded knowledge of the business world.

These courses include two work-study programs. Distributive Education, (DE), covers many facets of marketing as well as on-the-job training, while Cooperative Office Education, (COE), helps students obtain jobs at local business firms to help narrow the gap between the working world and school.

Courses added were those of personal typing, which is one semester acquainting a student with fundamentals, Economics, and a second year of recordkeeping.

In clerical practice students learn to use many types of machines, such as ten-key calculator, the executive typewriter, Thermofax, collator, and dictation and duplication machines.

As one business teacher put it, "I don't care what you do for a living, you're definitely going to come in contact with the business world and it's best you know something about it."

Mr. Eastes tries to get lessons across to first-year accounting students as they hurry to take notes.

Mrs. Johnson's first year shorthand students practice making the basic shorthand symbols to attain speed and accuracy.

Mrs. Macy watches as Dawn Miller works on her advanced recordkeeping.

Senior Dan Quigley types in first year typing class taught by Mr. Keith Fisher.

Senior Romelia Rodriguez practices using the calculator in C.O.E. class.

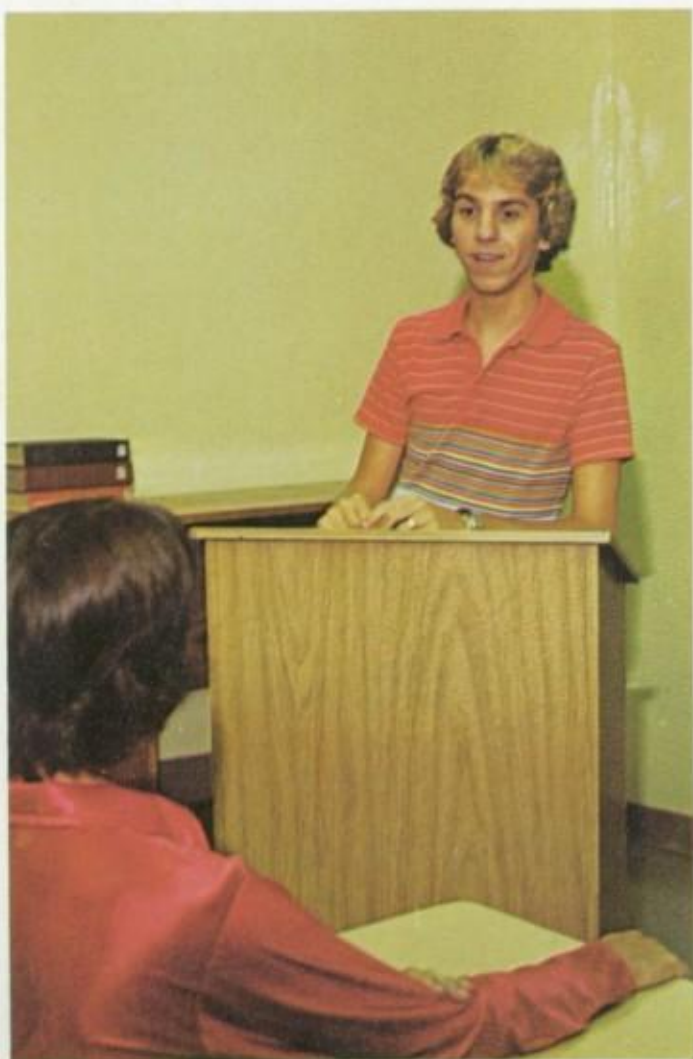

Miss Ayers explains the arrangement of the keys of the typewriter to her personal typing class.

Mistakes make speech better

In speech, 87 students enrolled for the first and second semester. Taught by Mrs. Claryn Meyers, speech helps the student know how to speak in front of a group, no matter how large or small the group is.

Members of the speech class talk on almost every subject, such as the presidency debates. Each student is required to give six speeches during his semester. This is so the students can build up their confidence and give Mrs. Myers an opportunity to point out their mistakes.

Junior Bill Rammel presents a speech.

Both students are having speech debates trials to practice up for a speech meet.

Students' reactions help the speakers improve in Mrs. Meyers' classes.

Linda Grant and Laura Harmeyer are discussing their assignment with News Editor Kitty Osborne.

Yearbook, paper take dedication

"The students who joined journalism were very dedicated. Some took part all three years, but the interest in getting involved wasn't as great as I would have liked," said Miss Norma Thiele, publications adviser.

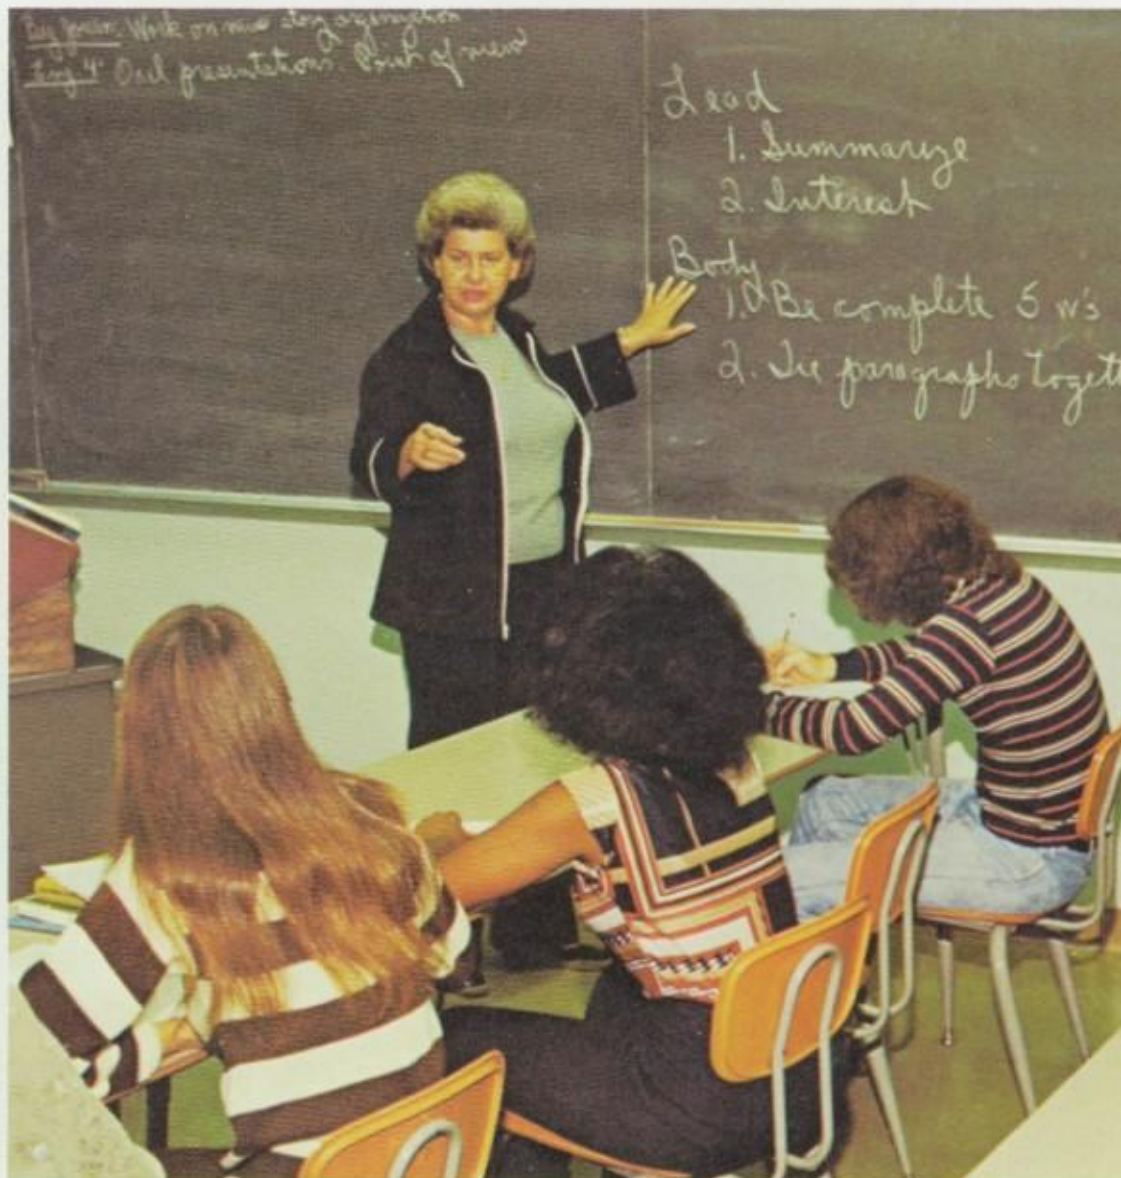

Four journalism classes were offered: Beginning journalism, advanced journalism, a class for the production of the Northerner and one for the Legend.

In beginning journalism, the seventeen students learned how to be a good reporter by finding how and where to get information. They had to put it together and write it in a form to be useful to someone. Most of the students worked on the Northerner by designing interesting ads and writing stories, finding information on the history of the school or helping make handbooks for the teachers.

For all journalism students, greater emphasis was put on interviewing and an in-depth study of stories.

Photographers, Chris Holser and Randy Duly examine film for scratches.

Miss Norma Thiele explains how to write copy to her beginning journalism class.

English studies prepare all

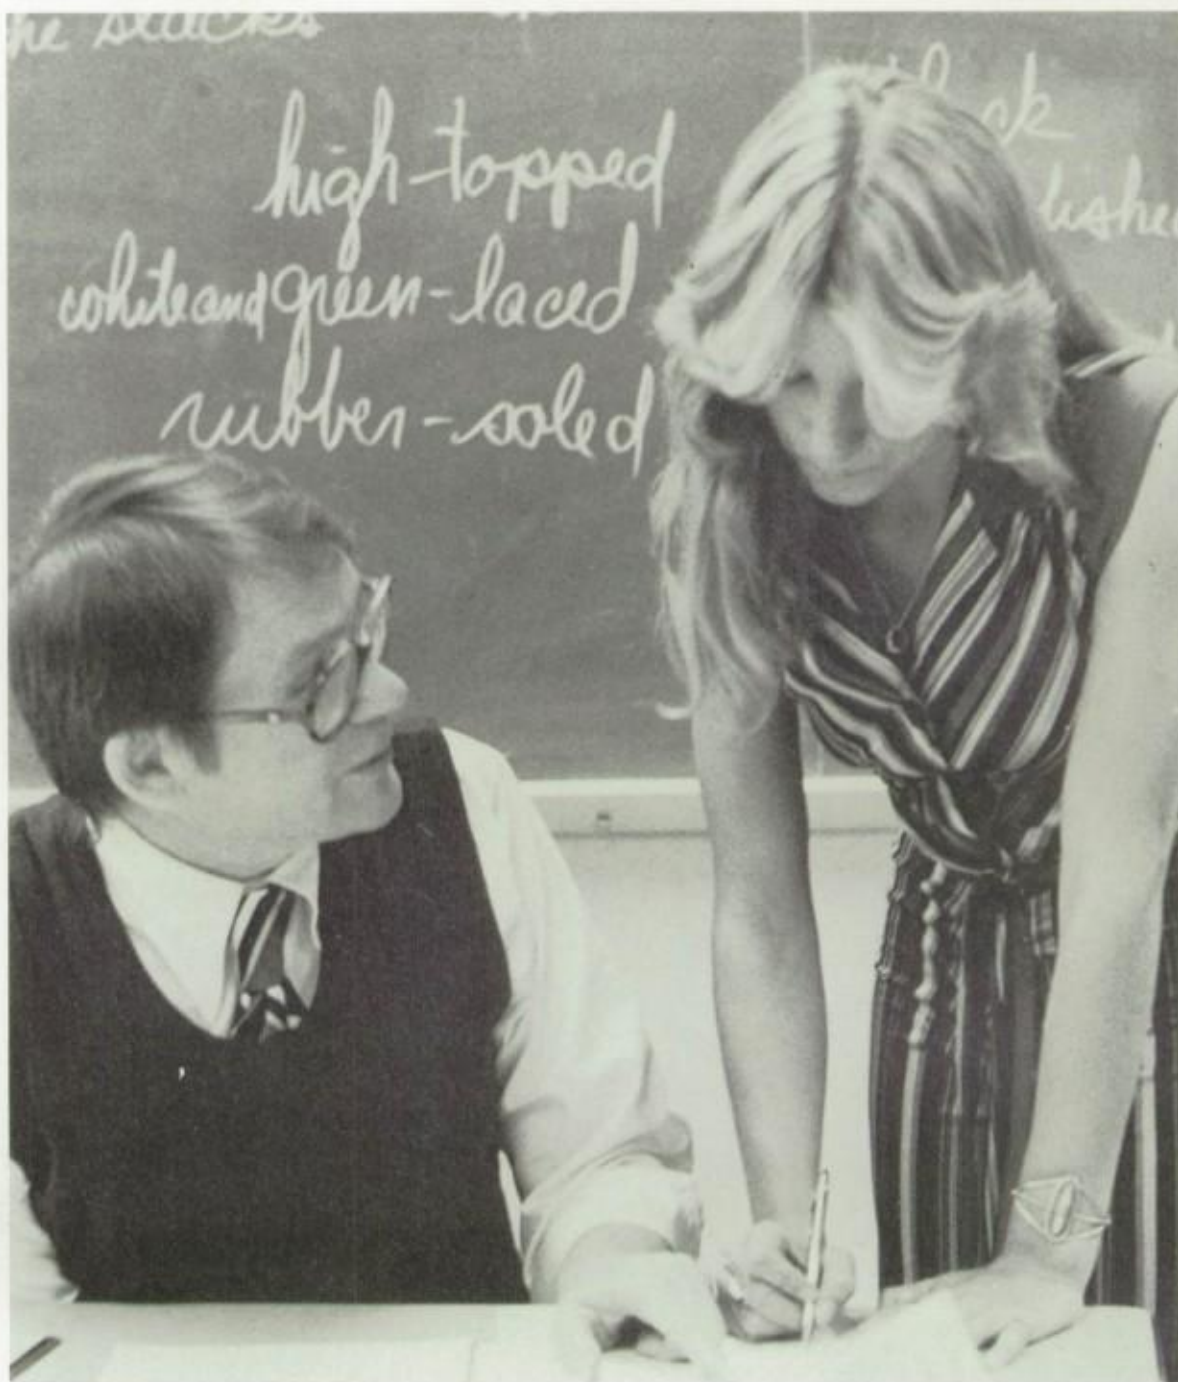

Three levels of English were offered: college prep, which was continued for the second year and had more than one hundred students enrolled; A level classes for the students planning to go to college; B level for the student who was going to work straight after graduation.

Twelve teachers worked to bring the students closer to understanding the English language. Miss Karen Hazelett was new to the English Department; Mrs. Kathleen Neuhaus continued for a second year as department head.

Emphasis was put on grammar for all students in all three levels and grades because colleges and parents thought it necessary.

Mr. Ward Beckley developed a reading program, which helped the student read for content. The students who took part in this program were advised by their English teacher.

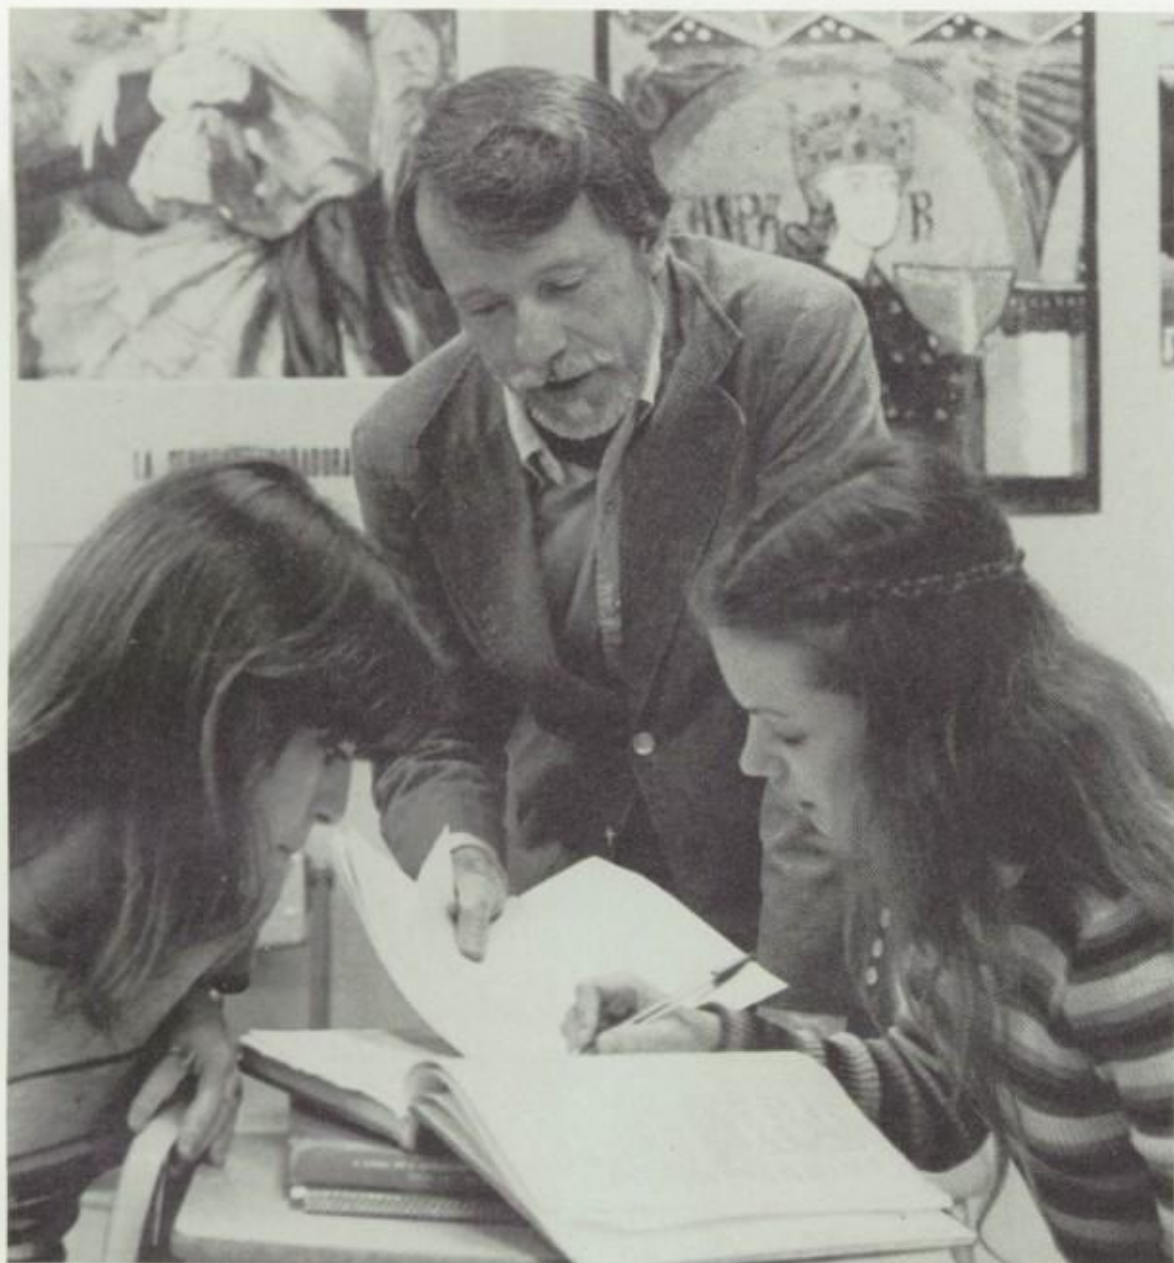

Twenty-eight students, the largest class ever, produced two issues of Kaleidoscope.

Mr. Paul Lemke explains assignment to Juniors Janet Mead and Christine Ealing in advanced Spanish class.

Languages get new participants

Mr. Paul Lemke, chairman of the Foreign Language Department, explained that Latin, Spanish, and French were offered for four years each.

In the department there were four teachers: Mr. Ward Beckley, who taught Latin; Mrs. Sherry Gerber, with classes in Foreign Cultures and Spanish; Mr. Lemke, who taught Spanish; and Miss Patricia La Fontaine, who taught French. She replaced Mrs. Ransburg, who retired last year.

According to the teachers, the classes planned many extracurricular activities. Among them were caroling at Christmas and taking field trips to dine at restaurants offering exotic foods.

An addition to many classes was a student from Peru, Iliana Mercado.

Spanish lessons on tape is a different way for students to learn.

Students taking French for the third or fourth year under Miss Patricia La Fontaine listen to lessons on tape.

Art students improving daily

Art Department classes were filled to capacity faster than any other area. Many new things were explored; photosilk-screening for tee-shirts, stained glass, and even animation were attempted rather successfully and, according to Mr. Bruce Massoth, department head, the teachers learned as well as the students.

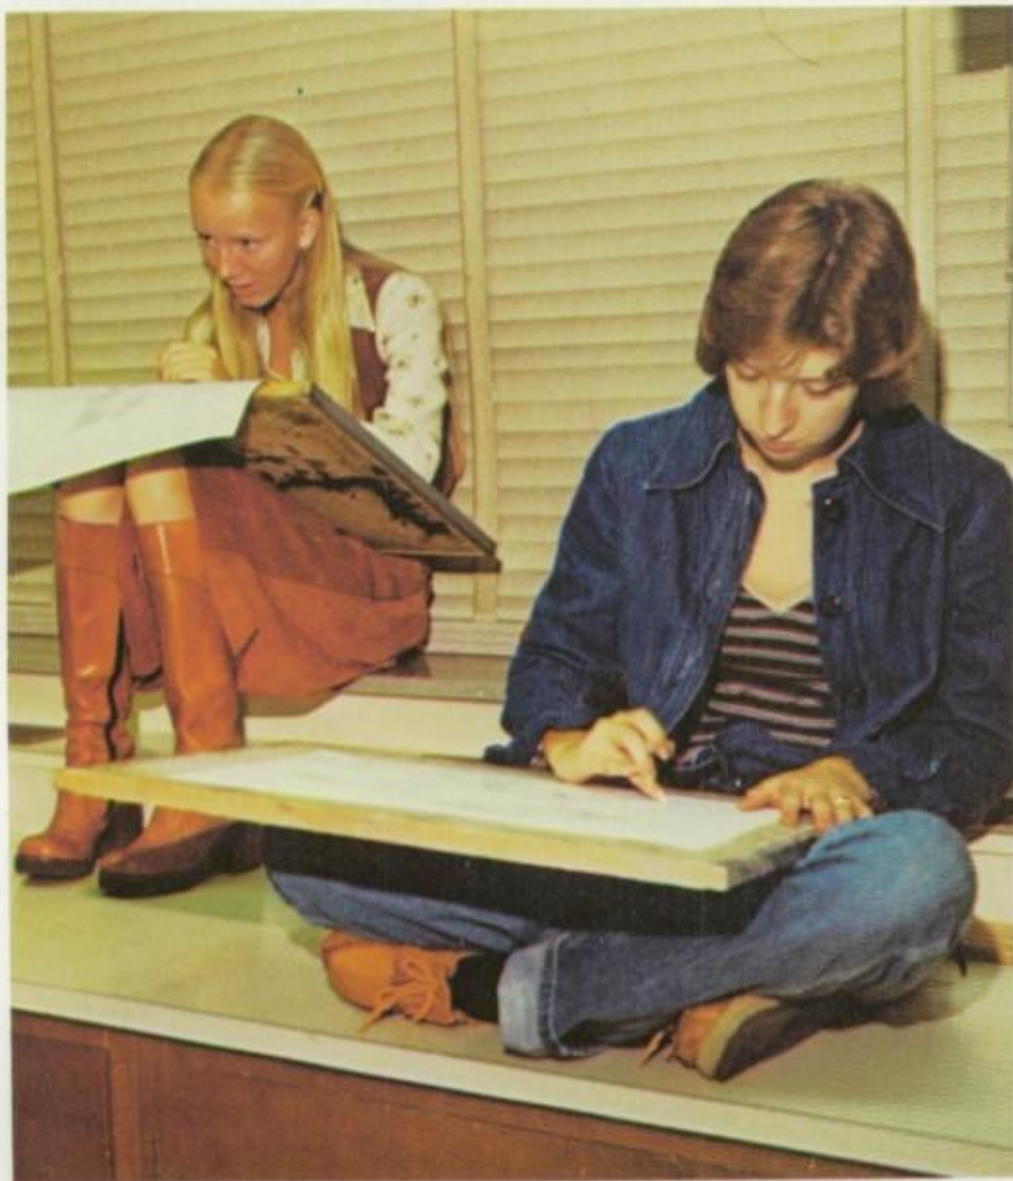

Mr. Massoth added that art "can fill a great void formerly spent watching television or doing nothing."

"The shirt you're wearing, the desk you're sitting at, the car you're driving—all these had to be drawn and sculptured by someone," Mr. Massoth continued.

This year also saw some extensive macramé and weaving, along with jewelry casting.

Art students juniors Toni Greable, Dawn Miller, and Lori Ostrander show their talent in drawing still life pictures.

The future artists, junior Melanie Burrows on the ledge and Senior Merilee Conn on the counter, create masterpieces.

Debbie Horton sketches as Mr. Massoth helps Velma Mayes with her still-life drawing.

In foods 1 class senior Kevin Blunt experiments while Senior Jill Habegger reads the instructions.

Even boys learn to cook and sew

According to Mrs. Coplen, "The girls treat the boys the same as they would other girls. I think it's a natural situation to have young men in homemaking classes," she added.

The purpose of the class is to teach students what nutrition is and how important it is, according to Mrs. Coplen. "Therefore we discuss the elements of nutrition and have a lot of laboratory experience in preparing nutritious food," which often brings Mr. Howe visiting.

In clothing classes, craft projects such as macramé and needlepoint are required, plus the construction of a certain number of garments.

Various community persons make presentations to the classes throughout the year.

A total of 19 male students enrolled in the classes offered by the Home Economics Department, reported Mrs. Dorothy Coplen, head of the department, this is an increase of 4-5 over last year.

Seniors Kevin Blunt and John Harden learn all the different techniques of cooking.

Second year foods students, Crystal Daniels and Renee Coleman, get experience in canning pickles as Mrs. Coplen instructs them.

P.E. joins yoga, modern dance

The PE curriculum has changed quite a bit from the past. Once the girls were instructed to wear the blue and white pin striped suits, but now they may wear the reversible red and blue shirt with gym shorts as the boys.

A gymnastics and dance class has been added to the curriculum and the cheerleaders took a gym and cheerleading class. They were taught by Mrs. Sherry Gerber, having gym two days out of the week and cheerleading the remaining three. This class evolved from the decision of the department head that decided the cheerleading class would also have to teach physical education to continue getting the gym credit.

Mr. Robert Taliaferro, who has been head of the P.E. department for four years, stated that because of the "Title Nine" discrimination code and the fact that the classes have all gone to co-ed, this year the names of the gyms have been changed from Girl's Gym to Auxiliary, and Boy's Gym to the Main Gym.

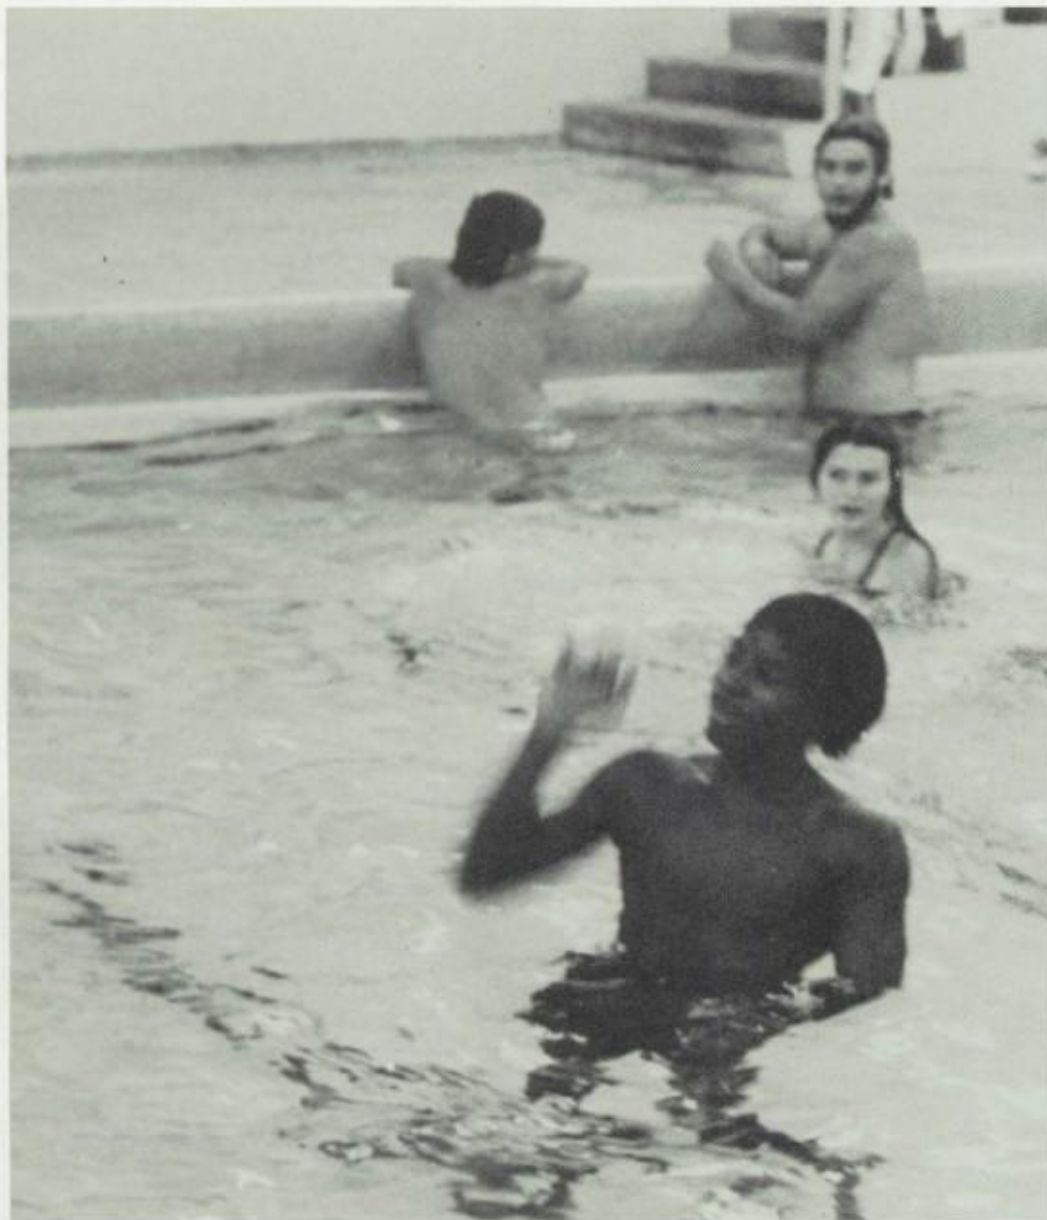

In bodybuilding and team sports students try to increase their physical ability as this student is.

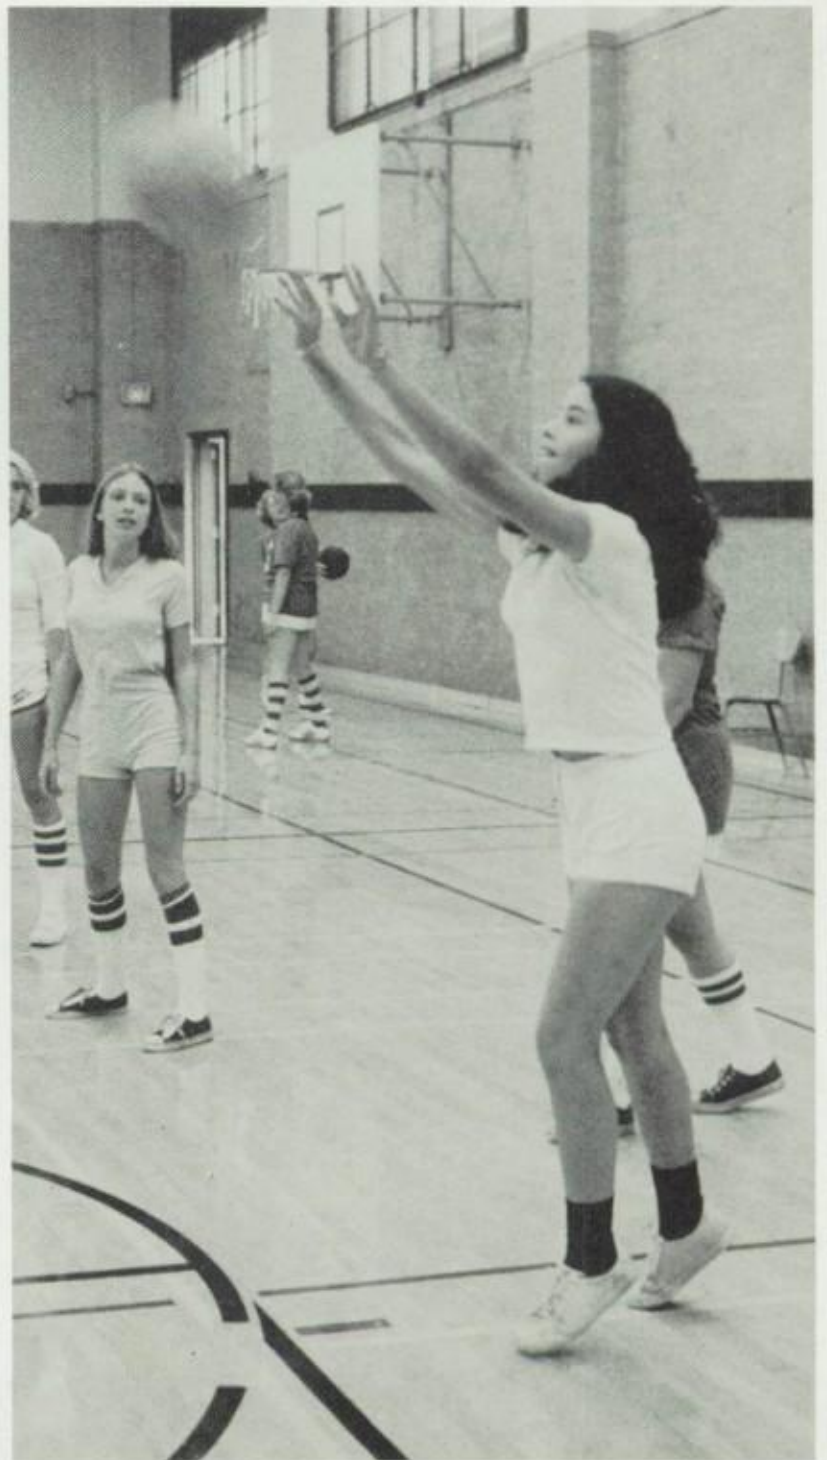

A new class was added to the P.E. curriculum this year, which was dance class. Ann Stoiche, Pam Kase, Jaqui Judd and Mrs. Diane Cole practice a few dance moves.

Melaine Ranly and Ed Anderson shoot some basketball in bodybuilding and team sports.

Basketball isn't everything, but this young man in Mr. Taliaferro's bodybuilding and team sports class seems to be enjoying himself.

Shelly Beaching practices her diving, which is one of many things Miss Donnelly teaches her students while they have the pool area.

Place to design found in shops

The Industrial Arts Department offered Metal working, Power Mechanics, Drafting, Woods, Electronics, and Woodworking.

"I enjoy working with young people and observing them progress and mature," said Mr. Jon Bill, which sums up the feelings of all the instructors.

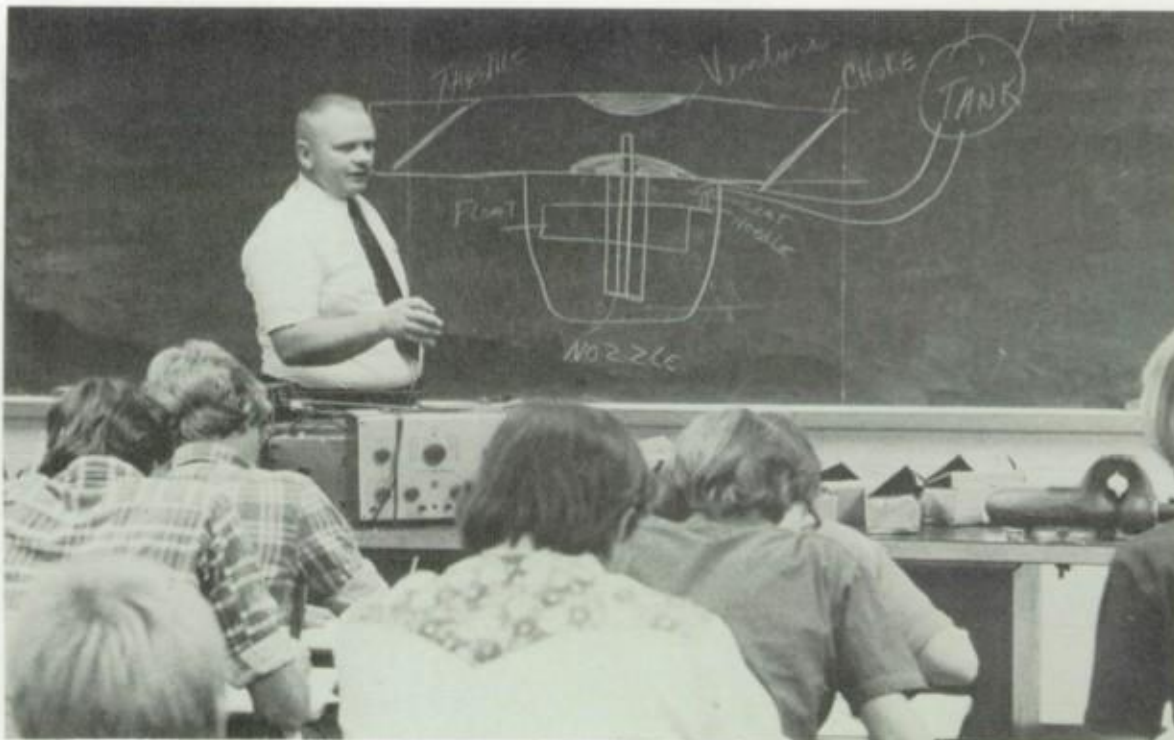

All the teachers have had at least two years of experience at North Side. They have found that the students come into class with a positive attitude and most are quite interested. Although the majority of the students are boys, ten girls also took part in the creations that were done in their various classes.

Electric motors, small gasoline engines, car engines, and solenoids, electromagnets, ohmmeters, Dwell meters, and wheatstone bridges, were some of the projects made in the power-mechanics and electronics classes.

Castings of belt buckles, various tools, and jackstands were constructed in metal working class. End tables, coffee tables, desks, speakers, shelves, and lamps were examples of the kinds of furniture made in woods classes. Bowls and spice racks were also made.

House plans and mechanical drawings of different sorts were composed in drafting classes.

Creativeness and working independently were emphasized in all the industrial art classes.

Mr. Wert discusses with his class the parts of an auto engine.

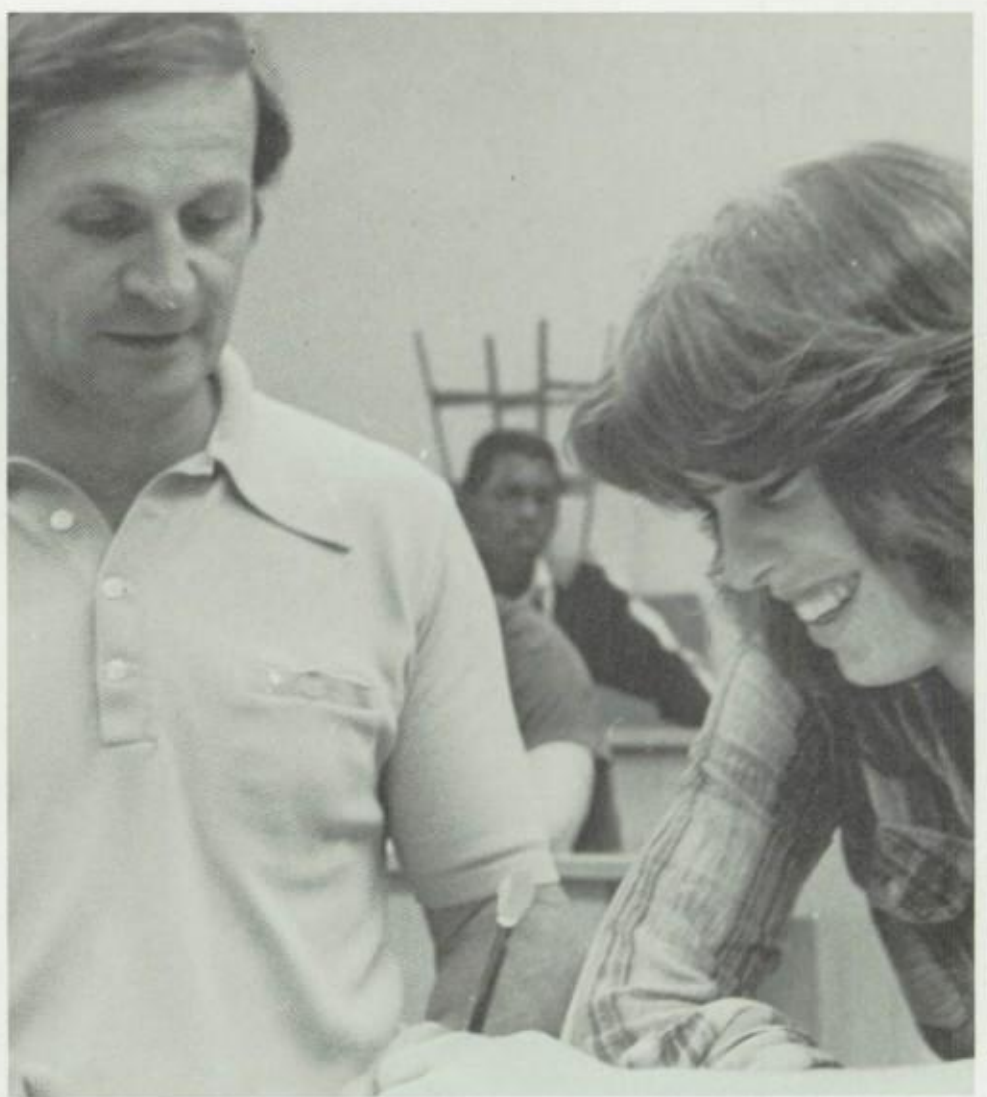

Determined, Mike Hoagland works carefully to complete a sketch.

Randy Redwanski works in solitude on his project.

Students listen as Mr. Edwards lectures on different types of woods.

Mr. Dickerson assists a student with her project.

Seniors Steven Thomas and Dave Williams are busy grinding tool bits.

Seniors Tom Pepple and Charles Sparks work hand-in-hand to complete a joint project.

Music makers add classes, groups

Mr. Phillip Stubblefield returned after a year's leave of teaching in the American Dependent Schools in Germany, and was the new music department head.

Eighteen music classes make up North's music program. A string ensemble class has been added for string musicians in the orchestra. Special string music is studied and performed.

A special group, an anniversary choir, is new for this 50th year. The singing is directed by Mrs. Janet Holloway.

Band classes directed by Mr. Edward King are varsity band, where sophomores gain experience in all types of band literature; a concert band, where students perform the finest in high school and collegiate band literature; and a marching band, which includes the Arrowettes, and performs at the home football games and competes in contests. Three stage band classes are offered: the advanced stage band, the Wildsiders, and the rehearsal stage band, which trains students for Wildsiders.

Training choir, A Cappella Choir, Troubadours, and Madrigals were the four choral groups offered. Training choir is a fundamental group, A Cappella for a general choral experience, Troubadours, for advanced music, and Madrigals, ten singers chosen for their ability to sight read.

Electronic music explores electronics sound production. Music theory is an enrichment class which studies the mechanics of music.

There has been a large increase in participation in the marching band.

The orchestra performs under the direction of Mr. Stubblefield.

Here Mr. King gives a little advice to the concert band.

Senior Kent Schrock and sophomore David Reynolds rehearse for varsity.

Seniors Kate Modic and Linda Wellman play their flutes to get ready for the Christmas Concert.

Practice, practice, practice! Here the varsity band practices some more music, instructed by Edward King.

More interest in Theater Arts

The drama curriculum had 6 levels of course offerings. Students explored the various aspects of drama such as play form, drama history, voice, interpretation, and technique of theatre.

Theatre arts dealt with all aspects of drama, with special emphasis on scene design and construction.

Mr. Linc Record, drama teacher, added more abstract discussion of literature and characters to his drama classes this year.

The 120 students enrolled in the drama classes produced children's theatre and performed "The Night of One-Acts."

Juniors Kelly Higgins and Lisa Holom relax on the set as they go over some practice lines during fifth period drama.

Juniors Mimi Jacobson and Kathy Lapp try a new look on Mr. Record during a time for play as fifth period 3&4 drama take down sets.

Mr. Record looks on as Junior Kathy Lapp and Senior Devin Lewis work on striking the set of the "Miracle Worker", a summer play.

Junior Jane Werling and sophomores Chris Neuhaus and Carrie Schaffer practice chants in Mrs. Gerber's cheerleading class.

Cheerleaders have change in curriculum

Cheerleading class has been changed. Along with perfecting their cheers the girls also are required to participate in Physical Education two days out of the week.

Mrs. Sherry Gerber, sponsor of the cheerleaders last year, is now teaching the girls' gym units like tennis, swimming, volleyball, flag football, and many others, as well as having the girls' practice the cheers and mounts.

Because the girls have the P.E. instruction, they will not be required to take gym as well as cheerleading to get their gym credit.

The varsity cheerleaders are practicing the "Scalp 'em" mount featuring Junior Tanya Traylor on the top.

The reserve cheerleaders are practicing for the cheerleading clinic while sophomore Renetta Bultemeier climbs to the top.

ACTIVITIES

Sophomore leaders seek funds, plans

Sophomore class officers had nothing definite in mind to do, but did send out a questionnaire to inquire of fellow classmates what, if anything they would like to do this year, stated sponsor Mrs. Wilma Ashe.

Officers Mark Lee, Amy Richardson, Jane Rich, and Ana Whiteman, president, vice-president, secretary-treasurer, and social chairperson, respectively, also were going to attempt to raise some money that they wouldn't have to raise so much their junior year, she added.

Meetings and plannings skits for pep session were among the responsibilities of the officers. They did a "fine job" summed up Mrs. Ashe.

Senior officers 'competent people'

Making sure all of the end of the year activities were completed was the main objective of the Senior Class officers, according to Sponsor Orvil Schlatter.

Brian Konger, president; Janet Putt, vice president; Trinda Zimmerman, secretary-treasurer; and Peggy Heath, social chairperson were "competent people who did their jobs without complaint," stated Mr. Schlatter.

Officers were also responsible for skits for pep sessions, class meetings, the traditional senior supper, the prom, the senior party, and for making some decisions concerning commencement exercises.

Junior officers 'really gungho'

Junior class officers helped plan the junior-senior prom, which included picking bands, decorations, and places where the prom and after prom could be held, according to class sponsor Mrs. Sandra Macy.

Along with the prom though, the possibility of having a dance, and the selling of decals and bumper stickers were also discussed.

Mrs. Macy added they were "really gungho."

The officers were Cindy Bradley, president; Barb Hoffman, vice president; Nancy Stout, secretary-treasurer; Sue Whiteman, social chairperson.

Radio club studies broadcasting

The radio club planned activities in broadcasting exploration.

Being in charge of the morning announcements for North Side, the group was responsible for passing on all important activity announcements to students.

The group met twice a month under the direction of Mr. Lincoln Record.

The common desire for everyone in the group was to study the technicalities of the broadcasting field.

Clubs get together to form council

Club Council sponsored by Dana Wichern, was a representative group of the more than 30 active clubs in school. The Council met once every 2 months to consider possible fundraisers, budgets, constitutions and by-laws of the individual clubs. Working together, Club Council hoped to raise enough money to send several students to SLI, a student leadership institute in Bloomington. Involvement in the school included working with Student Council on special projects and assisting in getting everything setup for pep sessions.

Literature, theater exposed in Helicon

Helicon club, sponsored by Mrs. Helen Solero and Miss Karen Hazelett was open to all second semester sophomores with an A- or above average in English, and any junior or senior with a B or above, according to President Adria Egbert.

Other officers were Deb Levison, vice-president; Jill Habeggaer, treasurer; Carla Moore, secretary; and Sue Newton, social chairperson.

Helicon met every third Thursday of the month and went to plays or planned events for the remainder of the year. Events planned included a party for some group in the community, a senior farewell theatre party, and added Adria, the possibility of a book fair.

Adria stated that "Helicon is the kind of thing that can expose you to literature and theatre."

Students in Helicon club make plans to take a trip to the play "The Lark" at the Civic Theater.

Afro Club open to all

Afro Club, sponsored by Mr. Arthur Eldridge, met Wednesday mornings at 7:30 in room 117. The club was open to all students at North Side.

Their purpose is to learn more about Black culture, to develop pride in their cultural heritage, and to work together for fund raising projects.

The Club's special events for the year were the Fashion/Talent Show, activities for Brotherhood Week, skating parties, the Soul Dinner, parents' banquet, and a play. The dates of the activities were decided by board members and by the club's officers: Adrienne Jackson, president; Rita Harrison, vice-president; Benita Moore, secretary; Bridgette Logan, assistant secretary.

The CCT girls Vital to meets

Cross Country and Track girls otherwise known as CCT girls had many duties connected with the running of track meets, acknowledged Mr. Orvil Schlatter, sponsor.

Mr. Schlatter added that they were responsible for keeping statistics, timing, scoring, setting up hurdles, and much more.

As Mr. Schlatter summed it up, "It's hard to put on a track meet without them."

A.F.S. club has new sponsor

Miss Patricia LaFontaine, the new French teacher was also the new American Field Service Club's sponsor. The club had twenty-three active members.

Its purpose is for students to learn more about other cultures and to interact with them. The club also made foreign exchange students such as Iliana Mercado from Peru, South America, feel more like a part of the school.

The A.F.S. events for the year included two potluck dinners, one in the fall and the other in the spring. A.F.S. also sold pens, Christmas cards, and perfume. A ski trip was planned but cancelled due to the bad weather.

Thespians gather a growing interest

"Prisoner of Second Avenue" and "Murder on Center Stage" were two plays that the Thespians produced. The members had to sell candy and light bulbs to raise money to help buy various props and costumes that were needed.

The thespians were sponsored by Mr. Lincoln Record. To acquire membership, the students had to get points by participating in productions or working backstage. North Side belonged to Troupe 2145 and had more than 35 active members.

J.C.L.'s share Latin talents

JCL, the Junior Classical League, met to develop an interest in classical language and to share their talents with other students.

Members were, for the most part, Latin students; however the club was open to everyone. J.C.L. participated in the annual Festum Romanum, the "Ides of March" activities, and began the year with a fall picnic.

Service workers assist faculty

Student service workers chose to volunteer their help to the administrative staff rather than to report to daily study hall sessions. No academic credit was awarded.

They reported either to the guidance office or the attendance office. Some jobs performed by these students were gathering attendance cards, filing, and running errands.

Mrs. Dana Wichern, assistant to the principal, was sponsor.

Media Center aides help in success

The Media Center assistants work in both the audiovisual and library areas. The students were expected to become familiar with all the instructional media, the arrangement of the media, and how to utilize materials and equipment. Audiovisual students work mainly on tape recorders, cameras, and film projector equipment. Library workers arrange the book shelves and put books in order by the card catalog. Both library and audiovisual assistants' help is vital to the smooth functioning of the Media Center, say the sponsors, Mr. Ted Crum and Mrs. Carolyn Zehner.

Key Club permits girls

The Key Club went through many changes. After 20 years as an all-male organization, it inducted Maureen Roeger as the first female member. Many more girls were later inducted.

Mr. Robert Lovell took over the sponsorship of the service club, which received telephoned pledges for the Jerry Lewis Telethon, parked cars at Homecoming, sold suckers for the heart fund, and published the Key.

Social activities included the Key Club convention in April, intramural basketball, and a bus trip to Kokomo.

Officers were President, senior Curt Kiefer; Vice-President, sophomore Mike McCaffery; Secretary, junior John Noel; Treasurer, senior Martin Olry.

FSA makes plans early

Future Secretaries of America was a group of girls who were taking advanced shorthand. These girls planned to enter into the secretarial field of business. Their goal was to develop a better understanding of the business world.

FSA was sponsored by the Tawasi branch of the National Secretaries Association. They met once a month in their shorthand class with their adviser, Mrs. Irma Johnson.

NSA's traditional candelight initiation included all the FSA members. Their money making project was selling stationery.

Leader Corps

Very Helpful

Leader Corps, sponsored by Miss Anne Donnelly had 14 members.

Their function was to assist a phys ed. teacher with skills and games situations during class. Doing this gave the leaders an advanced physical education credit.

Miss Donnelly felt the club provided a better understanding of physical education.

Miss Donnelly commented that she thinks "the club is a very useful organization and is a big help to the instructors."

You must be recommended by a physical education instructor for membership and have the sophomore gym credits. Each student leader gets a chance to teach one class during the year, the purpose being to see if she would like to teach a gym class in the future.

Maintenance club

has two goals

Machine Maintenance is a club that works on shop machines from drills to saws and then some. Mr. John Bill, the sponsor feels that the club provides many opportunities for a person who is interested in working on machines for a career.

Eight members made up the club. Matt Kyle is president; Rick Schaffer, vice-president; Bruce Teegarden, secretary-treasurer; and Steve Thomas, sergeant at arms. "The only true requirements are that you are interested in working on machines" said Mr. Bill.

Speakers compete with other schools

The National Forensic League, sponsored by Mrs. Claryn Myers, participated in contests to learn how to speak in public and for other special speaking engagements.

Every Saturday for about six months during the year was used to travel to other schools in the area for competition. The speech team competed as a team and also as individuals. Mrs. Myers worked with the members after school for extra practice. At the end of the year the Speech Club had an awards dinner.

Hines: 'Council did fantastic job'

Student Council did a "fantastic job" according to President Tony Hines, although "at the beginning there were a few difficulties."

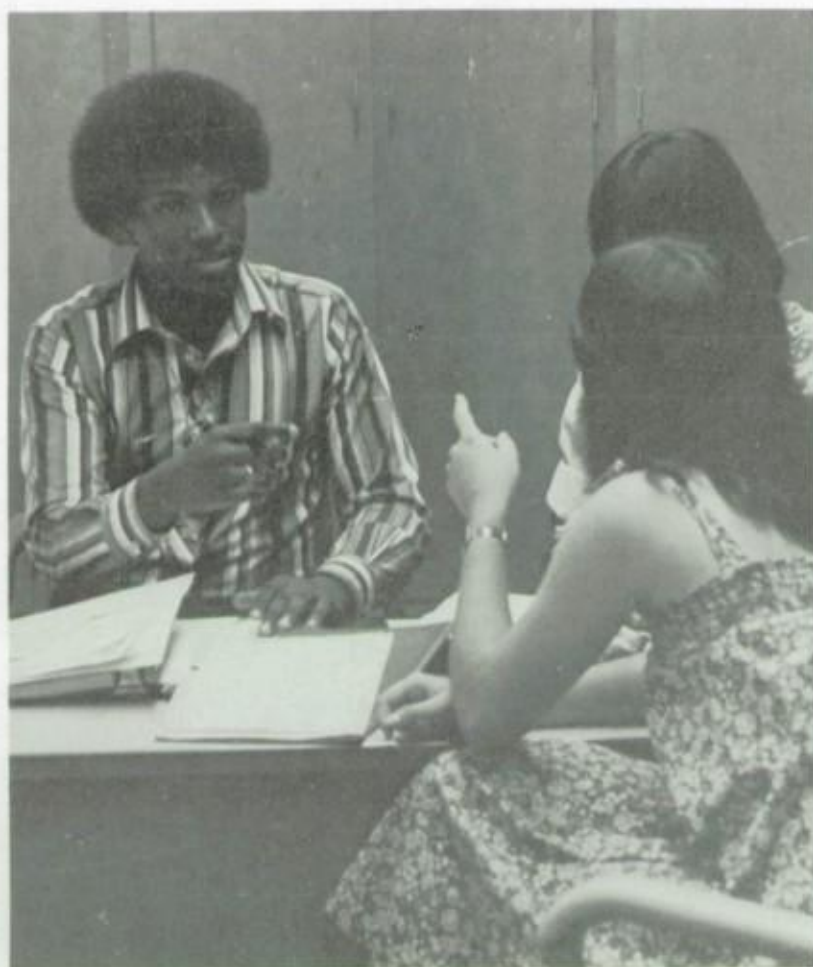

With a long, impressive list to boast of, the Council did indeed do a "fantastic job."

They sponsored such events as Homecoming, a "Salute to Walt Disney Week," "Career Week," and a donkey basketball game, and aided the Christmas Bureau with the collection of canned goods and money by showing the film "The Bad News Bears." The Council made its final act of the year a birthday party for North Side's fiftieth year, with cake and ice cream for the entire student body.

In conclusion Tony added, "We worked very hard to make the extra-curricular activities more meaningful and educational for the student body."

Junior Rita Meyer and sophomore Shelby Blackburn sort the clothing collected for the Christmas Bureau.

Seniors Tony Hines, Beth Watson, and Roger Salud argue at an officers meeting.

Staff had to meet weekly deadlines

The Northerner Staff had to meet deadlines every week. Their main purpose was to keep the rest of the student body informed of current events happening around the school.

The Northerner has been published weekly since the fall of 1927 and has been financed entirely by subscriptions and advertisements.

Many of the Beginning Journalism students, while learning the basics of journalism from Miss Norma Thiele, sponsor, helped gather and write up information.

Randy Duly and Chris Hosier, photographers, provided the Northerner and Legend staffs with many pictures.

Gaylen Waters, associate news editor, makes out the assignments to her staff for the next issue.

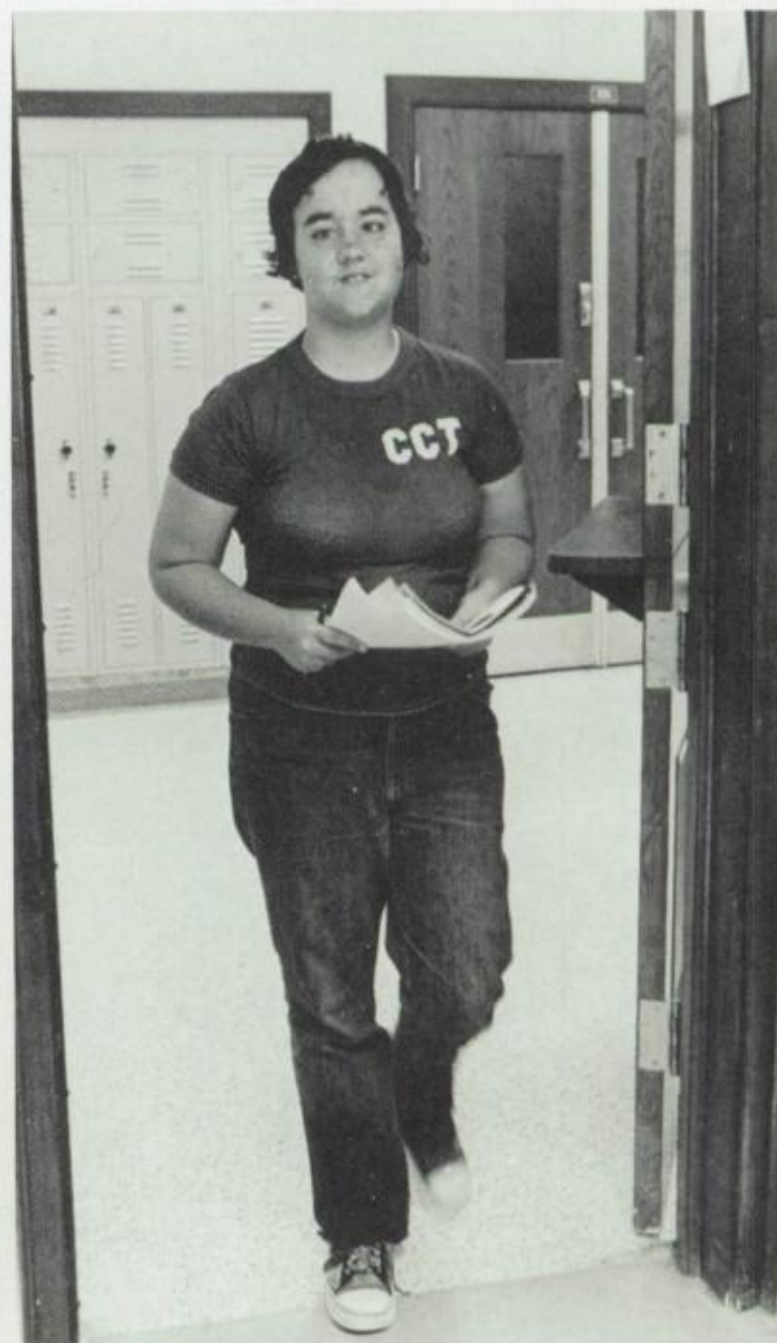

Sue Cowan and Brian Konger, co-editors of the Northerner, work on finishing some final copy to be sent to the print shop.

DECA members learn on the job

The Distributive Education Club of America, opened only to students who had completed the first year of Distributive Education, involved the various aspects of the business world.

Through discussion, students learned about marketing, sales and distribution. They then put it into practice at their individual jobs.

Receiving two business credits while at their jobs, this program involved many area businesses.

Sponsor Richard Irving set up interviews for them and left the rest up to the students. Performance both in class and on the job determined grades.

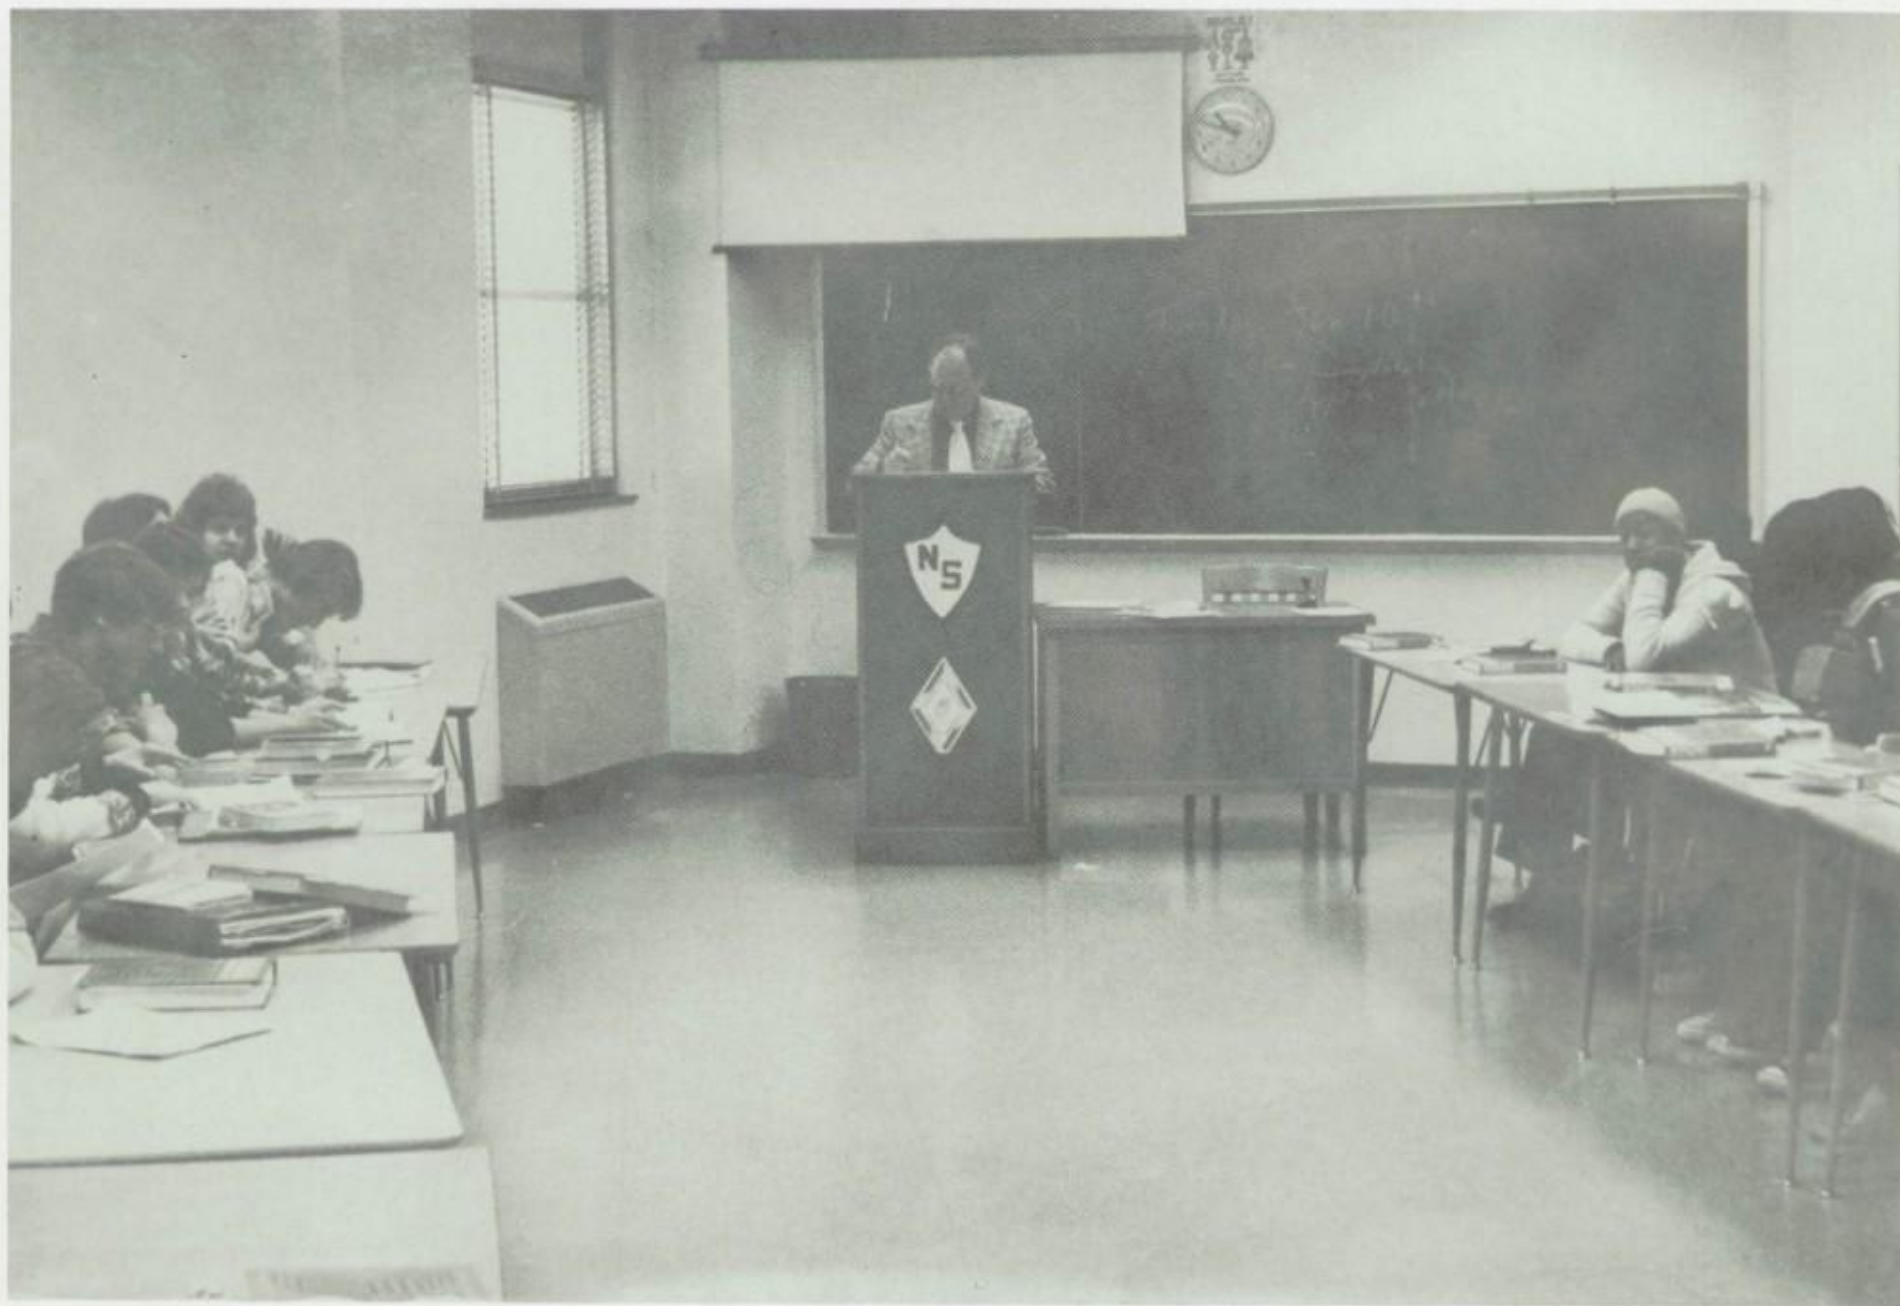

Mr. Irving points out some of the finer points of free enterprise.

Anita Witherspoon, editor, is busy drawing up final layouts, one of the many jobs the editor must tackle.

Creating yearbook very demanding

The Legend staff began work on the yearbook (agreed upon by the same staff as a masterpiece) in September.

Led by Editor Anita Witherspoon and Associate Editors Janet Putt and Janet Naugle, the staff worked hard to meet some very demanding deadlines.

Due to the fact that this was the fiftieth anniversary volume, the yearbook was given extra funds which were used for pictures in living color throughout the book.

The staff would like to acknowledge senior Paula Keely for designing the cover and Mike Martone, a former North Side student, for his poetic works.

Students look for higher horizons

Playing for concerts was the main concern of the Orchestra, which contained members from the String Ensemble in addition to selected wind players.

The Orchestra, or wind and string ensemble, participated in the production of the spring musical, "Carousel," providing background music as it sets the mood.

Mr. Phillip Stubblefield directed the 45-member group as it performed at the annual concerts, including the Fall, January, and Spring concerts.

Troubadours had a limit of 50 voices and only juniors and seniors could participate. They participated in many concerts including the Christmas concert, one which they sang at Lincoln National Bank and another at Southtown Mall.

A'Cappella Choir was open to all students who were willing to take a voice test. It was known as the choir that gave students the "general choral experience" in high school.

Wildsiders compete for jazz distinction

Some students extended themselves beyond the usual bands and orchestra as they joined an additional group, a jazz band.

The Wildsiders, a 27 member group, got its name from the theme song "Walk on the Wild Side" thirteen years ago. The Wildsiders were a very competitive group going to contest seven times. They also performed at North Side's concerts; winter, pops and Evening of Jazz to name a few.

The Rehearsal Stage Band, was a group of students who followed in the Wildsiders footsteps. These jazz band members practiced, performed, and competed to prepare themselves for membership in the Wildsiders.

Arrowettes add flair

The 48 member-Arrowette corps was featured at the football pre-game and half-time shows as they added flair to the Marching and Pep bands. They prepared for the corps competition at the NISBOVA contest, held in the spring.

Arrowettes are a big part of the band; here they perform their half-time show at one of the football games.

Band gets third 1st division rating

The marching Redskin Band, a 175 member group under the direction of Mr. Edward King performed at the Northern Indiana State Band, Orchestra, and Vocal Association Marching Contest, and received a first division rating for the third year in a row. Varsity band performed along with the Concert band and Arrowettes to produce the Marching Redskin Band.

The Concert Band was the seniors and juniors interested in performing in the annual concert; whereas the Varsity band consisted of the Sophomores, who prepared for the concert band. These bands combined to perform at the Varsity football games, and as the Pep Band for the basketball games. "Colorful", fun, and challenging" were the feelings of the students toward the band's 50th year.

Campus Life sponsor, Kerry Briggs, visits with students to acquaint them with the club.

Campus Life 'Youth for Christ'

Campus Life was presented to North Side students for the first time. All were invited to attend weekly meetings at a different location each week.

The group's theme was "Youth for Christ." Many different aspects of life, such as dating, family, school, and social problems were discussed.

They also sponsored activities for students; for instance, a banana split party, wild goose chase, a frisbee fling, a New Year's Eve party, a ski trip, and a trip to Florida in the spring.

Wrestlerettes give encouragement

These wrestlerettes were the first that North has ever seen. The girls cheered for the wrestling team at their meets. They also distributed water and words of encouragement to the wrestlers.

Quill and Scroll Honor journalists

Quill and Scroll is an international journalism honorary club. Says Miss Norma Thiele, club sponsor, "It is the highest honor a journalism student can earn at North Side."

Recommendations for membership must come from Miss Thiele. The students nominated must also be seniors, rank in the upper one third of their class, and demonstrate superior work in publications. The organization plans two social events each year.

Sue Cowan and Brian Konger accept an award in honor of North Side's fifty years in publications.

Intramurals give tournament action

Mr. Robert Taliaferro, sponsor of the intramurals' club, explained that it was organized "to give students not in a varsity sport a chance to participate in a team sport and to improve their skills."

The club's activities were open to all students. Basketball, volleyball, swimming, splash-ket-ball, table tennis, and tennis were scheduled for participants.

Most of the activities were held on Tuesday and Thursday mornings and afternoons.

Intramurals was organized some time ago. Although the club has no money for trophies and awards, they have tournaments in many of their sports.

In intramurals, basketball is one of their favorite sports. Here a group of senior players get into it.

Junior Tim Hale seems to be blocked off by the opposite team which is putting pressure on him. He thinks he should get rid of the ball.

Seniors Alvin Wells, Rick Boyles, and Ed Doell, and Junior Tim Hale wait for a rebound.

Redskins were truly champions

Redskin athletics concluded with an overall successful year, the coaches agreed.

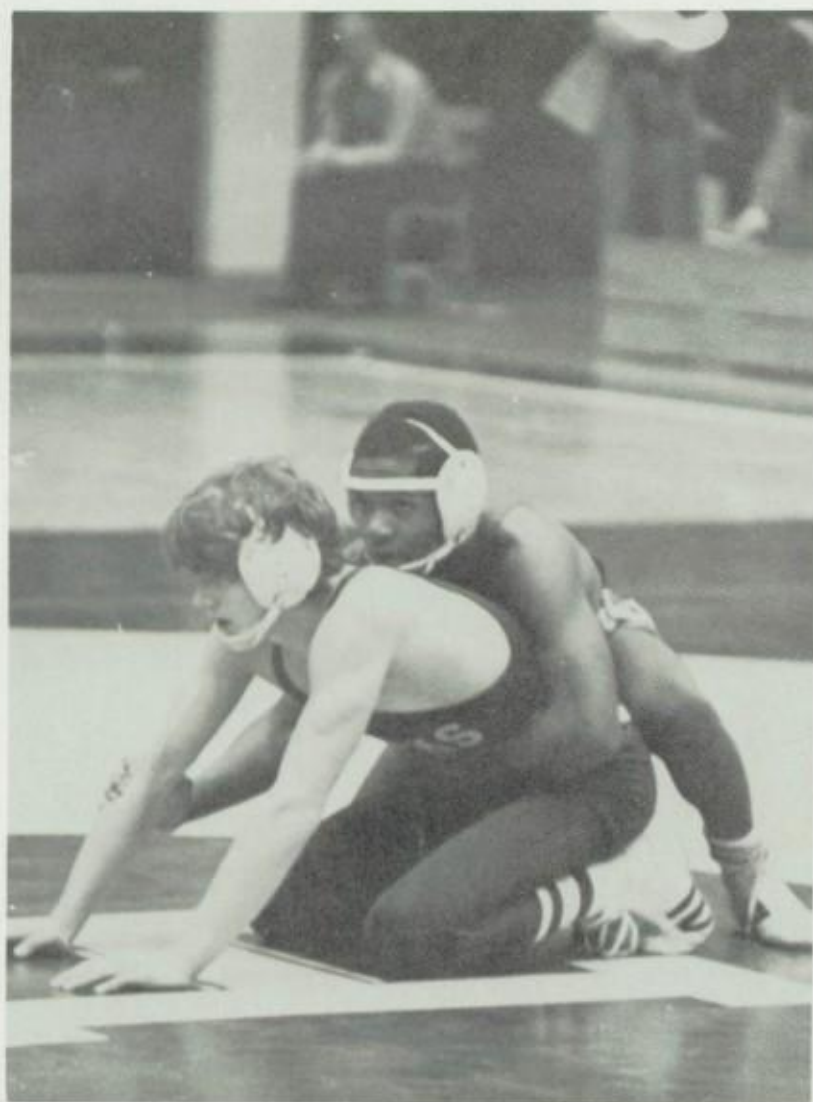

The optional level of the gymnastics team remained undefeated and the team as a whole finished second in the SAC. "We were experienced and had excellent sophomores," Coach Diane Cole explained.

Girls' Basketball Coach Vicki Ottoson feels some of their strong points were their speed, their inside game, and their reliable bench. The girls were city and sectional champs, and Coach Ottoson observed, "It was an exciting year."

The wrestlers won the New Haven Tournament for the first time and Junior Leon Williams advanced to semi-state competition. Coach Don Hunter comments, "Leon is a very talented young man."

According to Coach By Hey, this years' boys' basketball team was "one of the best that North has ever had," adding that the team's "Unselfish attitude towards great team play and their willingness to make the individual sacrifice" made them the Number 1 team for many weeks.

NHS members hold highest honor

Outstanding academic achievement has been recognized for the past fifty years by the National Honor Society. Members shared the highest honor at North Side.

The purpose of the National Honor Society was to create enthusiasm for scholarship, to promote leadership, and to encourage character development in North Side students.

Eligibility was based on character, scholarship, service, and leadership. Seniors must also attain at least a B+ average, while juniors need at least an A- average, and sophomores an A average.

One hundred seven students were recognized, including seventy-seven seniors, twenty-three juniors, and seven sophomores, a decrease from last year.

The valedictorian, salutatorian, and high honors students were announced at the National Honor Society's annual recognition ceremony in May.

Tennis suffers slow start

Although they were very young, this year's women's tennis team was "very hard working," according to Coach Anne Donnelly.

There were only three returning seniors: Shelly Harper, Anita Boneff, and Cindy Hoeffel. Interestingly enough, five sophomores made up almost half of the team, with only four juniors in the remaining spots.

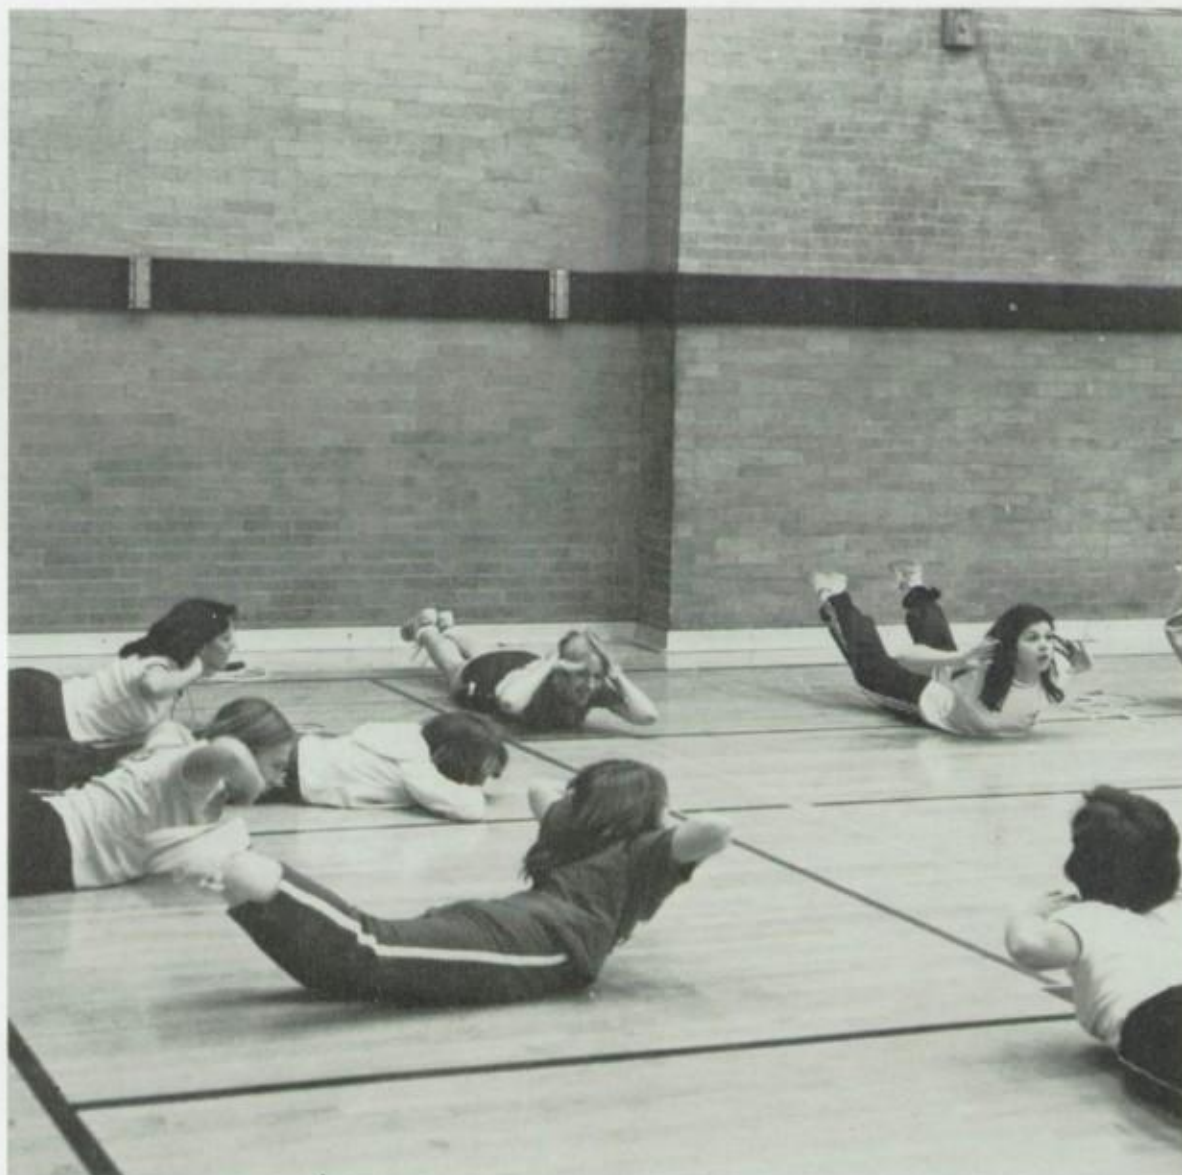

This was difficult year to get practices started, stated Miss Donnelly, with the blizzard, the coal shortage, and then the flood. Practices were held daily and concentrated on conditioning and drills on basic fundamentals. A new ball machine was also a practice device.

Coach Morris felt team has a chance

"This is the most excited I've ever been about the team," commented baseball Coach Mike Morris.

The 37 players trying out practiced in the auxiliary gym in the morning due to the coal strike. Coach Morris cut the team to 25.

Coach Morris feels North "has the best pitching staff in the city." Ten members have played in the Colt League Championship, which will give them good experience.

They had 23 varsity games and 5 reserve games scheduled.

Tom Madden, student teacher, helped Mr. Morris coach.

Mrs. Kathleen Neuhaus headed the 15 batgirls which will assist the men.

Coach Morris felt that the team had the potential to win sectionals, after being tied last year for fourth place in the SAC.

Senior Jeff Hale does his best to pitch a no-hitter or at least put another win in the scoring column.

Team unity makes for a good season

The Cross Country team ended their season with a sixth place standing in the city.

John Wagner, Alan Beltran, and Fred Grams were the team's top performers in the two and a half mile run.

Coach Dean Slavens felt that the team improved upon their record and commented that their team unity was a strong point for the team this year.

Practice started in June for the runners with practices being held after and before school.

The team will be losing only three members from the seventeen runners, and Coach Slavens feels that due to this the team will have a real good season next year.

Cindermen expect great season

"We are looking forward to a great season. The young men are showing great desire and good attitude," Coach Dean Slavens comments about the track season.

Of the 50 team members Coach Slavens will have eleven returning lettermen. Greg Ruff and Bill Foote, went to state last year. Bill placed sixth in the long jump.

The team placed seventh in sectionals and sixth in Regionals last year. Their record was 9 wins and 3 losses.

Assisting Coach Slavens were Kip Ormerod and Ken Miller.

The team started practicing in January and won their first indoor meet against Culver Military by a score of 87-30.

Hustle and teamwork don't pull it off

The girls' volleyball team started practicing on August 15 during the day and after school once it got underway.

The girls had a season record of five wins and eight losses. Coach Anne Donnelly felt that their playing wasn't consistent and might have led to their downfall. Although the team's playing wasn't consistent Coach Donnelly thought "they hustled a lot more and they played more as a team."

The team had six returning players in the fourteen-member varsity squad.

In sectionals the team won their first game by defeating Bishop Dwenger by 11-15, 16-14, 15-13, and then were taken out of the running by Leo.

Reserves had eight members that won two meets out of the six they played.

Running events strongest for girls

Because the prolonged gymnastics season kept Mrs. Diane Cole involved in that sport, Miss Vicki Ottoson was recruited to assist as track coach. The energy shortage also made practice difficult, although it did begin after school March 10.

Coach Ottoson commented that the track team "should come up with good relays, sprinters, middle distance, and milers." She feels the running events will be their strongest points. Coach Ottoson also said the team had about four people in each event.

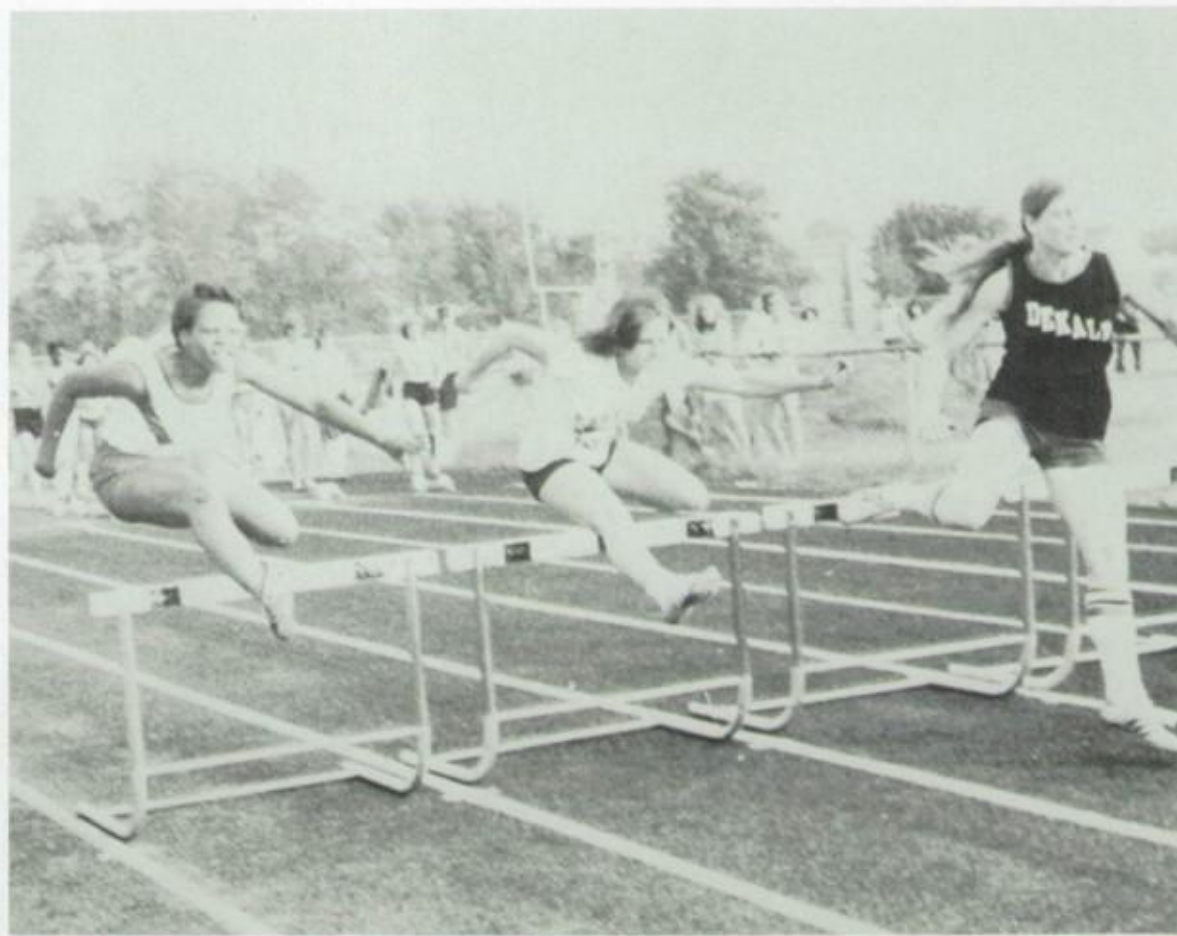

Last year's team had a record of four wins and six losses; they placed ninth in SAC and nineteenth in the sectionals. Senior Jan Powers broke the high jump record and set a new one at 5 feet 2" in the SAC trials. The girls also broke thirteen other records.

Dickerson, team have great leadership

They had "great leadership and stuck together. They kept winning seasons alive for the first time in twenty years," commented Coach Myron Dickerson about the football team.

The team's S.A.C. record was 6-3, and their standing in the city was fourth.

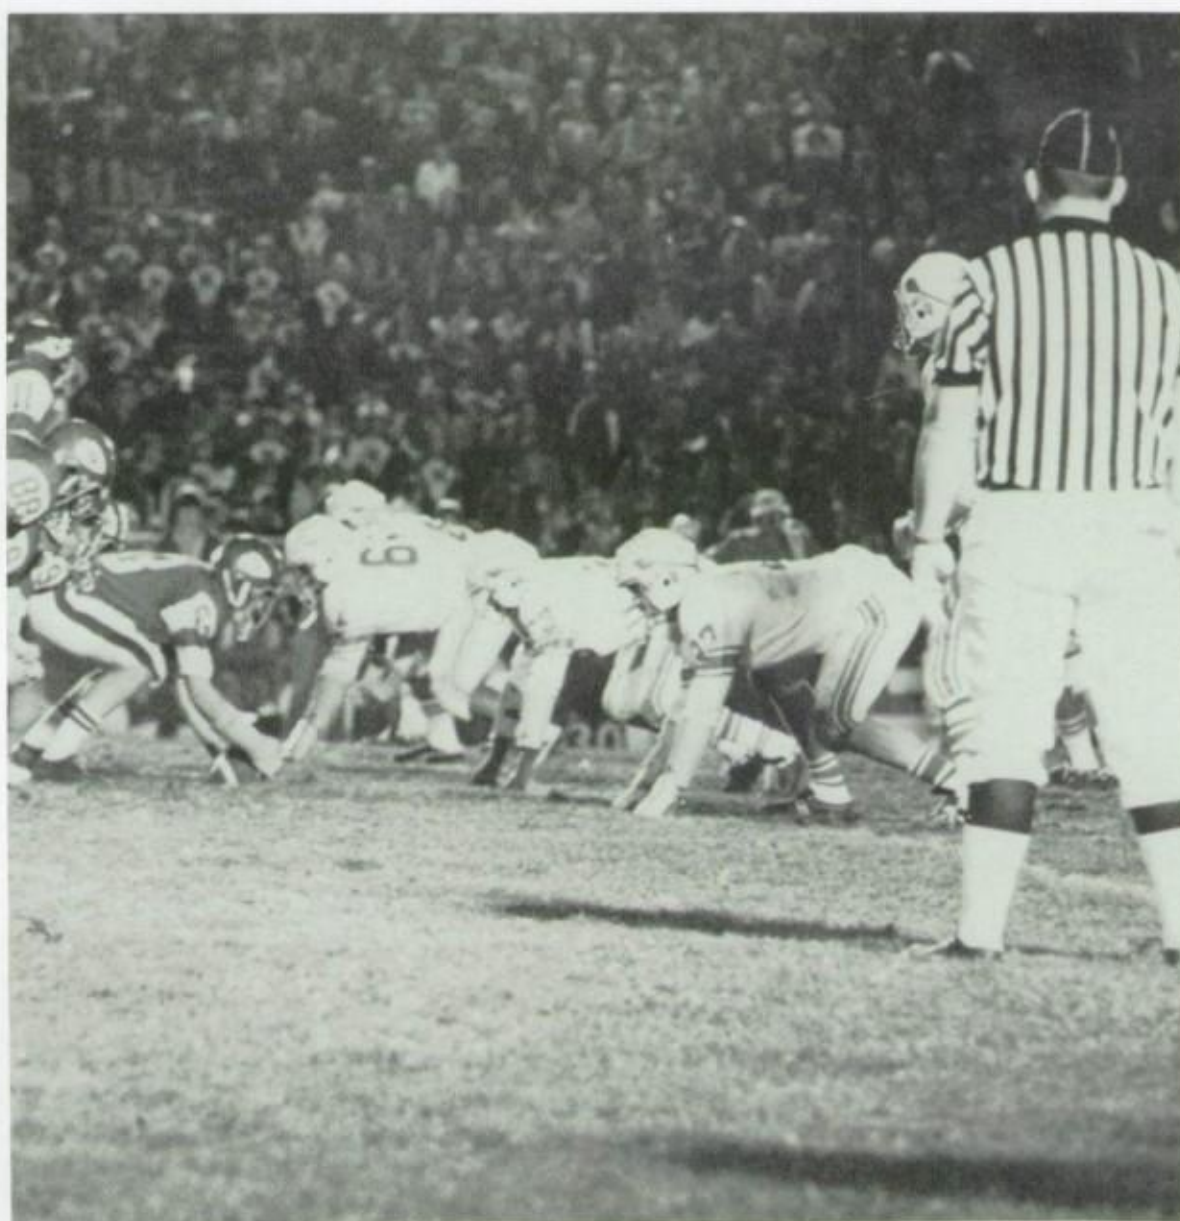

Steve Nelson was voted most valuable player at the Awards Banquet along with Steve Thomas, outstanding offensive player; Jim Hines, outstanding defensive player; Alvin Wells, leadership; Melvin White, pride, hustle, and desire; Ken Bodmar, sportsmanship, skill, and mental attitude; and Bill Foote and Mark Emmons, most improved player.

Sophomore Tim Boren, running back, blocks his opponent to prevent him from getting through to the carrier.

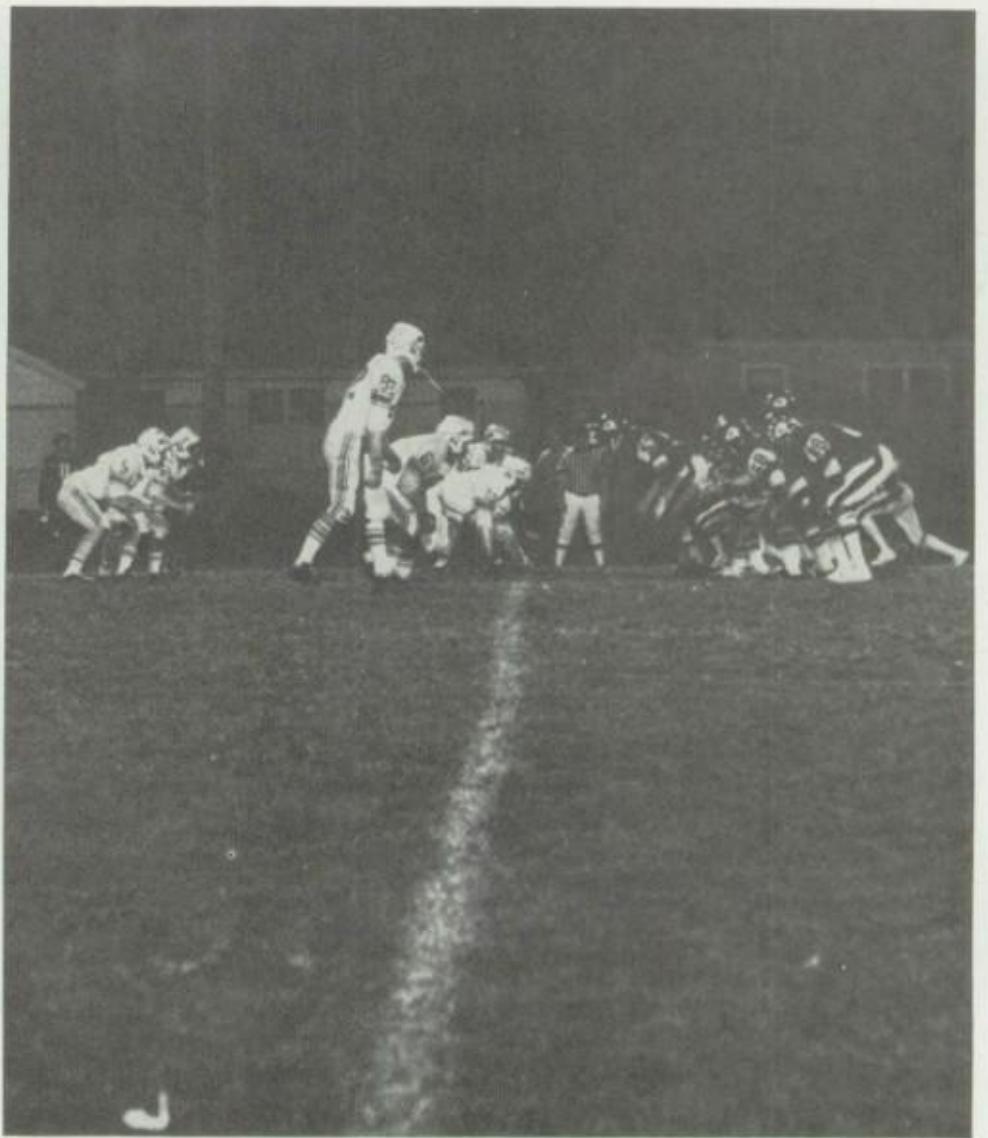

North's captains and their opponents call the coin to see who gets to receive or kick and which goal the teams will defend.

The defense prepares to hold the South Side Archers to as few points as possible in the last game of the season.

Senior Steve Nelson prepares to punt ball for the extra point after the touchdown.

The defensive team awaits the snap so they can stop their opponents dead in their tracks.

Team experience helps golfers

John Wagner, George Sweigert, Bill Bandor, Tim Wiegand, and Brent Overholt were the five returning lettermen for this year's golf team.

Coach John Stauffer started out with 15 golfers which were then cut to 10-11 members.

Coach Stauffer felt that the team "was much better this year with experienced people playing."

The team played their home meets at Colonial Oaks Golf Course and played in the Carroll Invitational.

Last year the team finished their season with a 4-22 record.

Senior Brent Overholt practices some putting so he will be prepared for the upcoming season.

Senior George Sweigert kneels down to get perspective on a chip shot to the green.

Tennis record doesn't say it all

The men's tennis team started morning practices about mid-July and continued at 2:35 after school began.

Mr. Myron Henderson, coach, felt that the team was not strong enough at the top positions. However, they improved in their morale, team record, and depth, in his opinion.

Number one singles player was Andy Burke, and in doubles John Noel and Martin Olry.

Coach Henderson commented that, "The 3-8 record did not at all indicate the strength of the team, almost half of the matches were decided by a single point. On an individual basis, individual wins were 28, and individual losses were 32, all of which indicate that with stronger top positions North would have had a completely different season."

John Kenny and Curt Kiefer, seniors, are working on their skills so they will be prepared for the upcoming season.

More experience helped reserves

The reserve basketball team had played 11 games and earned a record of nine wins and two losses.

Coach A.C. Eldrige felt the team was not always mentally prepared. They improved as they gained more experience and developed strengths in their defense and fundamentals.

Coach Eldrige stated that the "team had been consistent through the year. They also played good defense, and when they hustled, they were extremely tough. Overall, they were a fine group of young men. Their attitudes were splendid. They need to recognize the abilities they have. When they do, they will be a very fine team."

Wrestlers' season accomplishes much

"It's been a very enjoyable year, mainly because of total effort. We've accomplished more than we expected," stated wrestling coach Donald Hunter.

Returning lettermen were Jodie Ryan, Dave Harris, Dave Trogdon, Jeff Ryan, Dave Warner, Todd Nix, and Jeff Smith.

Coach Hunter feels that the team has become more intense, with good strength at the end of matches. "We had a good team," Hunter commented. "However, the team lacked depth."

The wrestling team came away from the New Haven Tournament with a victory for the first time ever.

Senior Dave Warner, a third year wrestler, prepares for his match against his opponent.

Practice or game, Redskins intense

The boys' varsity basketball team had many reasons for its successful season, according to Coach By Hey.

Says Mr. Hey, "They're a fun group to be associated with because their enthusiasm encourages intensity, whether they're in a practice session or a basketball game."

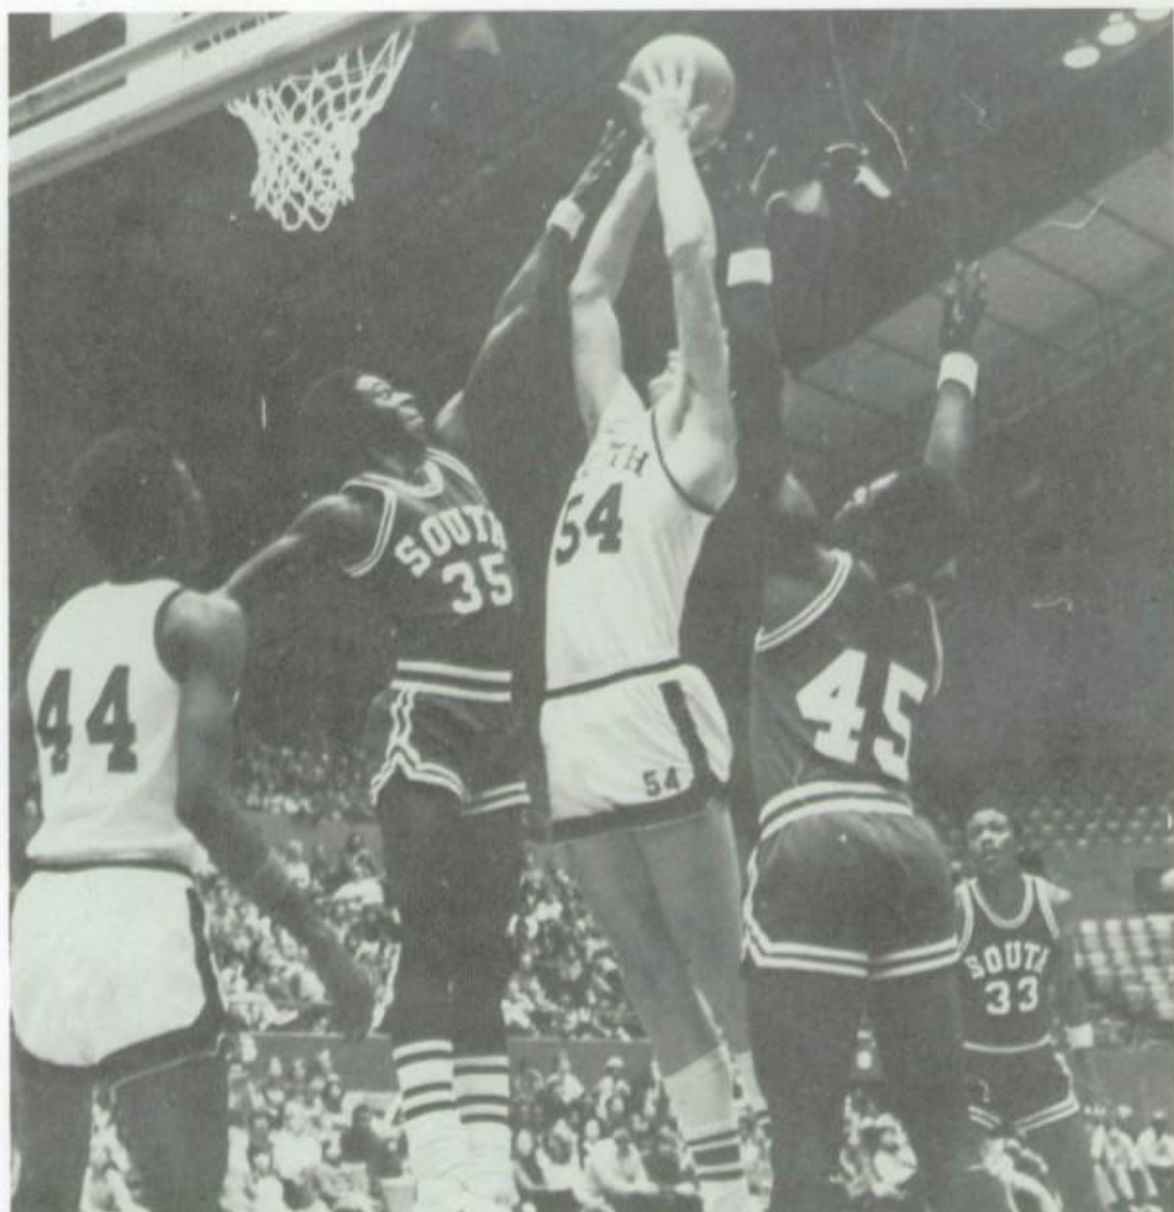

Top players this year were captains Stan Powell, Steve Nelson and George Sweigert, respectively.

Seniors Kevin Blunt and James Adams were "blessings in disguise," and sophomore Tony Williams was a "pleasant surprise."

What made the team good this year was "the recognizing of their job" concluded Mr. Hey.

Stan Powell, senior, works on a little defensive move against his opponent.

Senior George Sweigert shoots for two while being double teamed by South Side at the holiday tournament at the Coliseum.

Steve Nelson, third year member of the team, tries for a basket during the holiday tournament, which North won.

A big part of basketball is not only making points, but preventing the other team from doing so as well, as we see George, Steve, and Kevin keeping the Hawks from making two.

Girls' basketball team sets record

The girls' basketball team set a record for the anniversary.

Varsity players were Coletta Perry, Denitta Magee, Lori Johnson, Angie Dennis, Linda Kaiser, Trinda Zimmerman, and Shelly Harper.

Miss Vicki Ottoson, coach, commented that, "The team unity was tremendous." and added that, "We had speed, hustle, desire to win, and good senior leadership. We had four seniors who posed outstanding leadership. We had no bad faults, everything about the team was good." The wins over Bishop Dwenger for the city championship and over Leo as sectional champs were perhaps the most memorable for the team.

Sophomore Lori Johnson jumps sky high to try to control the tip of the ball as the girls host Bishop Dwenger.

Trinda Zimmerman tries to add to the score while hosting the Saints at a home game.

Senior Angie Dennis takes a quick look towards the basket to aim the ball for two points.

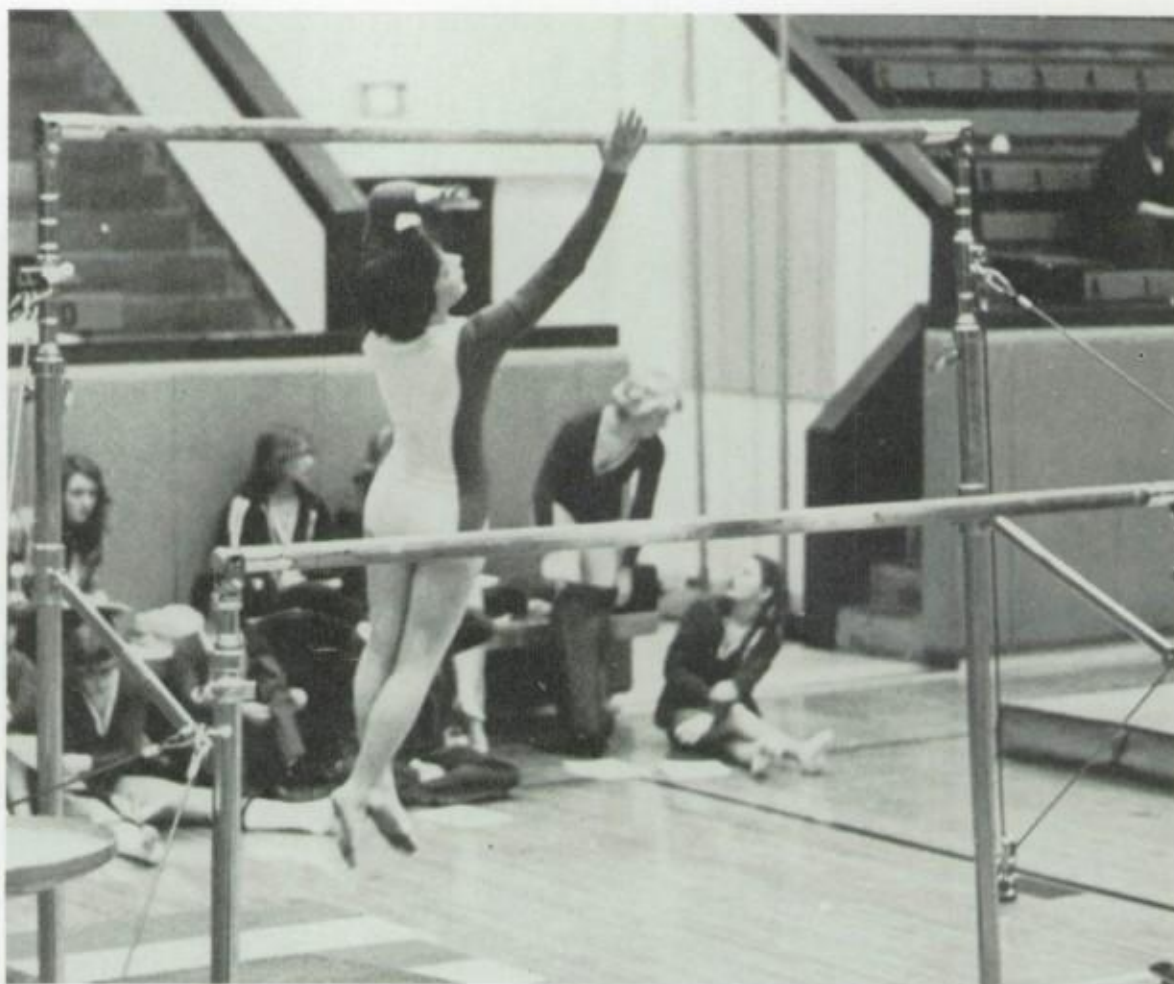

Senior Trinda Zimmerman tries to convert two at the foul line as her teammates prepare for a rebound.

Strong gymnasts improved in season

The gymnastics team under coach Diane Cole lost two early individual meets, but the team showed their potential and strength closer to the sectionals. The team was very strong in their intermediate and optional level. Floor exercises, uneven bars, beam, and vault were the events in which the team competed. Returning seniors were Terri Haskins, who competed in the intermediate level three years, and Lisa Traylor who had a good season with beginning uneven bars.

Returning from second place in the state championship meet were juniors Gwen Bahr, and Tanya Traylor, and senior Phyllis Martin. These girls, plus the talented sophomores, Karen Olry and Evan Beck, made the optional level as good as last year's team. Tammy Moreland, a former North Side gymnast, and John Wagner contributed their help with spotting and demonstration.

Vaulting is one of four events in gymnastics. As redskin demonstrates what can be done.

Gwen Bahr does a cartwheel on the balance beam as Shelby Blackburn spots her.

As in any sport, gymnasts have to warm up a while before competing if they want to do well.

Cheerleaders make profit

Varsity cheerleading squad consisted of eight members, with twelve on the reserve.

For a fund raising project they sold spirit suckers on lick'em days. The money raised was put into the cheerleading funds and was used for the expense of the cheerleading clinic in the fall. The money was also used for away game expenses.

New ideas consisted of more pom poms being used in chants and cheers. More "boogie" type cheers were used too.

For special events the cheerleaders made an appearance at the Arch-way Cookie convention, and they hope to be on the March of Dimes telethon again. Mrs. Sherry Gerber, sponsor, commented that the girls "are starting to support the girls' basketball team as well as the guys' team."

Practice is a time to perfect and practice mounts and cheers as the varsity squad reviews the mount for "Scalp 'Em."

Mrs. Sherry Gerber, sponsor of the cheerleaders, gives some helpful hints to the reserve squad.

Tanya Traylor and Joanne Porter give it all as they do the cheer "Are You Ready?"

'Great Blizzard' marked January

Snow, snow, snow and more snow! That's something we'll be able to tell our children about: How we lived through the Blizzard of '78.

Five- and six-foot drifts covering cars and totally hiding houses; snowmobiling and walking as the only means of transportation; special T.V. programs to keep homebound persons entertained; postponement of the girls' basketball tourney.

There were some benefits, though. All schools were closed ten days. People were also reminded of others' kindness by those who went and got food for those not able, gave rides to those walking, and loaned out snowmobiles and four-wheel drives for emergency use, all of which made for a truly memorable winter.

This was our year

The 1977-78 year began with the 50th anniversary. The Three Rivers Festival Parade included North Side's hand-built float, the Marching Redskin band with cheerleaders, followed by the faculty and alumni.

Early in fall homecoming drew over eight hundred spectators to watch homecoming events. The football team had their best season in years.

The basketball team was honored by being chosen for the Hall of Fame Tourney. Mr. By Hey won over three hundred games in his basketball coaching at North, and the school won its 500th basketball game. For the first time in its history, North Side's basketball team was No. 1 in the state rankings for many weeks.

The girls' basketball team showed they could also be No. 1, as they won city, sectional, and regional championships.

So we started the year with the right foot. Snow, deeper than any time in North's history, stopped classes but didn't stop the Mighty Redskins. There were jazz band practices, yearbook assignments, gymnastics practices, wrestling meets, and all sorts of activities.

The Redskins never gave up, and that's what made North Side what it really is today. This was our year!
